New Hampshire Reaches 10,000 Miles for Favorite

Write-Ins Write Off Rocky, Barry

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Absentee Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge blanketed three major contenders with a flood of write-in votes to win a stunning upset victory Tuesday night in New Hampshire's Republican presidential primary.

Lodge, 61, the Johnson administration's ambassador, 10,000 miles away in South Vietnam, rolled up about 32 per cent of the votes and seemed likely to gather under the tent of his unannounced candidacy the state's 14 convention nominating votes.

Senator Barry Goldwater

Rep., Ariz.) and New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, who campaigned intensively in the state for weeks, battled it out for second place, with Goldwater holding the advantage. Their names were on the ballot.

In fourth place was Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 Republican presidential nominee, who, like

Lodge, was the beneficiary of a write-in campaign.

In the Democratic primary, President Johnson got a substantial write-in count, topping that of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy for president and vice-president.

In Washington the Democratic national chairman, John

M. Bailey, said the Kennedy vote reflected "the great esteem which the Democrats of New Hampshire would hold for him and held for his martyred brother."

The Republican tally from 207 of 302 precincts: Lodge 19,994; Goldwater 14,614; Rockefeller 12,180; Nixon 10,694.

Lodge supporters led in all 14 contests for delegate posts.

Rockefeller, calling Lodge a New England favorite son, challenged the ambassador to return to join in active pursuit of the nomination. He said that statutes governing the state department would require Lodge

Lodge Ponders

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Tuesday he will "very carefully consider" his endorsement by the voters.

George Cabot Lodge said he received the statement from the ambassador in a telephone call to Saigon. The son said he told his father before the election that the public opinion polls "look pretty good."

Three-River Policy Next Year?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The B.C. government's vast two-river power policy could become a three-river policy next year with the addition of the Fraser to the Peace and Columbia.

Shouting Match

Banking Bill Passes

B.C.'s revolutionary banking bill sparked its third legislative shouting match yesterday as Liberals lost a last-ditch stand to block it.

Chief antagonists again were Premier Bennett and Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane.

FINAL READING

The bill, which enables the government to become a part owner in the proposed Bank of British Columbia, got third and final reading. It needed only the formality of being signed by the lieutenant-governor before it becomes law.

Mr. Macfarlane spearheaded Liberal opposition to the bill yesterday when he accused the premier of deliberately withholding names of prospective bank directors and the amount the bank's authorized capitalization.

PHONY REPLIES

He said that when he asked questions of the premier he just got "phony answers."

The legislature was being asked to sign a blank cheque on the provincial treasury, he charged.

"This is a dark day in the legislative history of B.C.," he said.

Premier Bennett lashed back. "This is a dark day for the Liberal Party of B.C.," he shouted.

AGAINST B.C.

"You are against B.C. You are for the eastern interests," he continued angrily.

He said that during the "financial crisis" controversy of two years ago Mr. Macfarlane had done "untold harm to the people of this province."

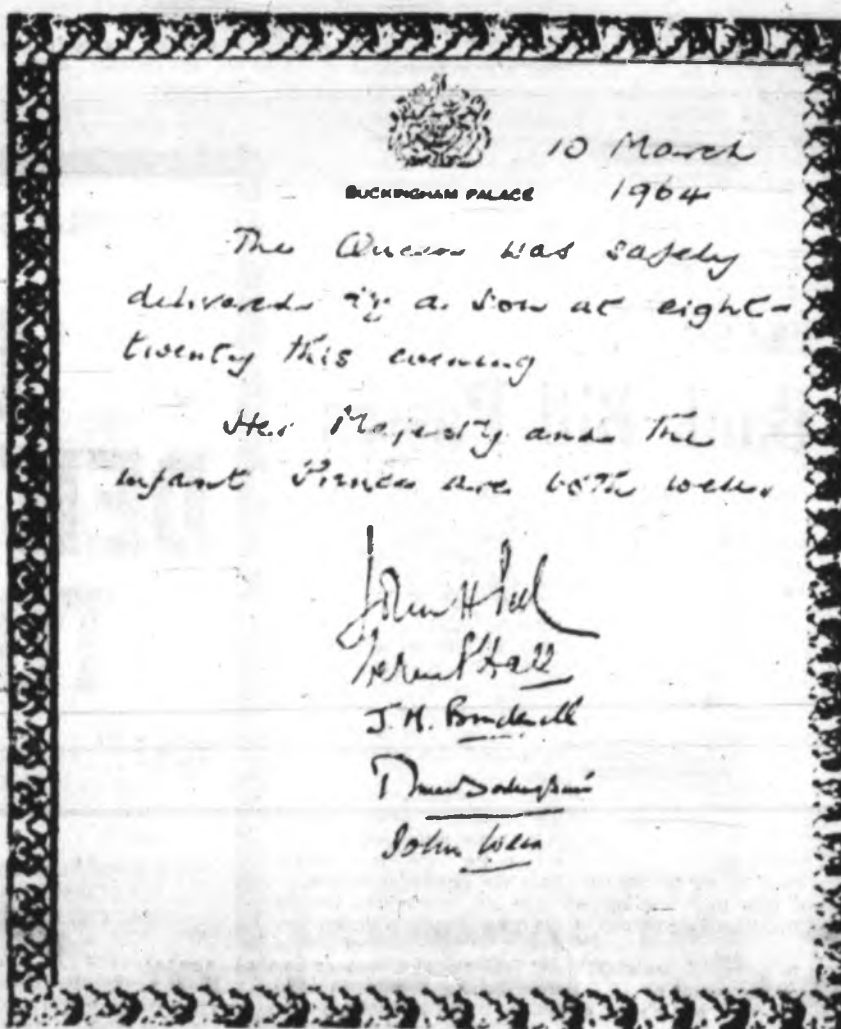

"You are an enemy of the people of this province," he cried.

Strike-Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The shipyard strike will delay the inauguration of the Comox-Powell River ferry run beyond this year's tourist season, Highway Minister Gagliardi said Tuesday.

The government awarded a $484,177 contract to Victoria Machinery Depot in December for the 25-car 200-passenger ferry for the run. It was to be ready this summer.

Royal birth announcement, signed by physicians

B.C. Celebrates Sunday

Next Sunday has been proclaimed as a "day of rejoicing and a day of prayer to almighty God" in B.C. in recognition of the birth Tuesday of a third son to the Queen and Prince Philip. (See story on Page 5.)

The proclamation was issued by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black on behalf of Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

The provincial legislature passed a resolution asking the lieutenant-governor to forward to the royal couple the members' "great joy at the birth of your son."

The resolution was moved by Premier Bennett and seconded for the Opposition by Arthur Turner (NDP—Vancouver East).

'All Canadians Rejoice'

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier Tuesday sent the following telegram to the Queen:

"With my humble duty I wish to express to Your Majesty on behalf of your Canadian people our great joy at the birth of a son. With Your Majesty and His Royal Highness we give thanks to God for this precious gift and pray that He may grant the little prince a long and happy life."

Prime Minister Pearson sent the following message:

"All Canadians will rejoice at the glad news of the birth of a son. May I on behalf of the government extend to Her Majesty and Prince Philip loyal and hearty congratulations and all good wishes."

Plea for Retarded

Tisdalle Stills Legislature

A man who often empties the B.C. Legislature last night held it spellbound.

Saanich MLC John Tisdalle took just six minutes to ram through the salary vote which Health Minister Martin has sought since last Thursday.

He talked of Woodlands School for retarded children as if he were a parent of one of its patients—which he is.

"We've boys and girls storey after storey."

"It is nothing more than a housing situation to put them out of sight."

"This is my own opinion," he said. "Nobody is going to shut me up."

"I feel incensed," he said.

"I know tonight I can go to parents and find they are suffering because they cannot get accommodation for their children."

"All we need to do is vote the supply and get on with the job."

Mr. Martin left the house at one point during Mr. Tisdalle's speech.

When he returned he sat with head bowed.

Victoria University's Lansdowne facilities were being put on the auction block to the highest bidder when they were urgently needed as a local facility for the retarded.

Mr. Tisdalle said.

"Retarded children shouldn't be taken away from their own communities."

"Bring them back into the community where the people know them and there is human kindness," he pleaded.

There had been too many emotional words on the subject of care for the retarded and not enough action, he told the hushed legislature.

Mr. Tisdalle was surrounded by a government clique which earlier had been pounding gleefully on desks as Mr. Martin offered rebuttals to opposition attacks.

When he was finished a half-dozen government members pounded their approval.

The role of government critic is a strange one for the Saanich member. Usually he is one of its most ardent admirers.

Eastern U.S.

STORM HACKS LETHAL PATH

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States Red Cross rushed disaster workers to Cincinnati and Louisville Tuesday night as floods, torrential rains, snow and destructive winds wrought havoc in the eastern half of the U.S.

SPILLED BANKS

Rivers and streams fed by the drenching rainfall spilled over their banks in western Pennsylvania and created widespread flooding.

An Ohio River flood, threatening to become the fourth worst in the valley's history, forced the evacuation of thousands from their homes in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

Robert C. Edson, national director of disaster services for the Red Cross, said a survey showed 23 counties in Kentucky, 16 in Ohio, 15 in Pennsylvania and six in Indiana were affected by the floods. At least four persons died in the floodwaters.

Edson said the Red Cross housed 2,000 persons Monday night and looked for substantially more Tuesday night.

Red Cross shelters were established in Athens, Ohio; Cincinnati; Louisville, Ky.; Lock Haven, Pa., and Carnegie, Pa.

Pittsburgh was placed on the alert to brace itself for its highest water since the rains from hurricane Hazel pushed the Ohio River up to 32.4 feet in 1954.

The Ohio and the Allegheny rivers rose rapidly and the Monongahela was running high.

Cambodia

Rioters Sack U.S. Embassy

PHNOM PENEH (AP) — Rioting Cambodians sacked the U.S. Embassy in this capital of Cambodia today, tore down the U.S. flag and burned it and ran up the Cambodian flag instead.

The sacking followed a demonstration by several thousand Cambodians in front of the U.S. and British embassies. They shouted "U.S. go home," "Down with imperialism and the free world," and "Perfidious Albion (England)."

No damage to the British Embassy was reported.

There was no immediate word whether any Americans were injured in the riot. Several demonstrators were hurt by shattered glass as the mob stoned windows.

The crowd broke through police barriers and sacked the U.S. Embassy and the United States Information Service offices for two hours. Several embassy cars were turned over.

Rioters put a ladder against an embassy wall and climbed up to bring down the flag.

Embassy papers were scattered through the streets.

East Germany

Unarmed U.S. Plane Downed by Reds

WIESBADEN (AP) — A U.S. reconnaissance bomber disappeared Tuesday and the United States accused the Russians of shooting down the RB-66B over Communist East Germany.

A U.S. defence department spokesman said the plane was unarmed and that its three crew members parachuted after the shooting, which apparently occurred near one of the Berlin air corridors. Their fate was not known here.

ATTACK DIVE

A civilian pilot said he saw what looked like an attack dive by a Soviet-made MIG-17. He said he saw a flash as if the jet had fired rockets but was not able to see the target.

In Washington, the state department protested the "precipitous action by the Soviet military forces in shooting down" the plane, but expressed regrets that the plane had "inadvertently" strayed into Communist East Germany.

CREW WRECKAGE

The department asked the Russians to co-operate in returning the crew members and the wreckage of the plane.

The air force said the plane was last spotted near the central Berlin air corridor, one of the lanes reserved for allied planes flying over Communist territory between Berlin and West Germany.

Gloucester Eyes Candidate

GLoucester, England (UPI) — Hypnotist Henry Blythe said Tuesday he plans to win a seat on the Gloucester city council by hypnotizing the voters.

Bank Break-In Nets $78,000

JONQUIERE, Que. (CP) — An estimated $78,000 was reported stolen Tuesday night in a break-in at a bank in this Lake St. John logging community.

No one saw the thieves. Jonquiere is 115 miles north of Quebec City.

Fraser Action Seen

accompanied by a quick thaw and warm rains.

First step in getting the Fraser project under way would be to have the board's report accepted by provincial and federal governments.

If it is approved, Mr. Williston said, there would be joint talks on phasing of the project and financing. B.C. would expect a 50-50 cost split as a basis for going ahead, but would adjust this to compensate for the value of power produced.

President for equal sharing has been created in financing of the Fraser Board's studies which began in 1955.

The board's report warned that "with such year's delay in taking protective action, the next damaging flood is that much closer."

"Accordingly, it is emphasized that remedial measures should be undertaken as early as possible."

The project is designed to control a run-off with a potential for discharging 600,000 cubic feet of water per second at Hope—a situation which engineers predict would happen only once every 100 years. Some 2,000 homes on the Lower Fraser Valley were destroyed in the 1948 flood which brought a 536,000 cubic feet per second discharge at Hope.

The control project calls for reconstruction of 233 miles of dykes and building of eight dams. The $4,900,000 dyke phase of the project would start first.

These are the other control projects:

● Five dams on the Clearwater River system which flows into the North Thompson which in turn flows into the Fraser.

HELP PEACE

Biggest of the eight would be the 400-foot-high dam on the McGregor which would back the Fraser tributary into the Peace watershed and produce 275,000 horsepower on the Peace hydro project.

Largest power producer would be the Clearwater dam at Hemp Creek. It would produce 500,000 horsepower from a 400-foot-high dam costing $80,000,000. Output would ultimately write off the cost.

Mr. Williston said progress on the power phases will have to be keyed to B.C.'s load growth and the availability of Peace and Columbia power.

Some parts of the project may create major controversies. The Clearwater dams would destroy much of the recreational value of Wells Gray Park and some "moderate" salmon runs would be affected.

Prairie Tragedy

SASKATOON (CP)—Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Thiel drowned Tuesday in the South Saskatchewan River trying to save a third, who also drowned. The Thiels have one other child and expect another in a few weeks.

Your Good Health

Lack of Blood Sugar In Hypoglycemia

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My condition has been diagnosed as hypoglycemia. How can I avoid weak spells? My arms and legs frequently go to sleep and I have a slight soreness in my chest.—G. C.

Hypoglycemia means that the blood has less than its normal amount of sugar. At times, that is, when the sugar level declines, the patient feels weak and may have other symptoms: Headache, irritability, nervous sweating.

While there are various causes of hypoglycemia (liver disease, adrenal deficiency, a "dumping syndrome" because of removal of the stomach), two-thirds of the cases result from overproduction of insulin by the pancreas.

The symptoms usually come on several hours after eating—the supply of sugar has been pretty well consumed.

WRONG ANSWER

The answer, you might think, would be to eat more sugar, but this isn't correct. Yes, the sugar will "pick you up," but it also will stimulate the pancreas to secrete still more insulin, so you get into a vicious circle.

The answer, rather, is to eat something which contains more protein and little sugar. This protein will, eventually, be converted into blood sugar, but not as rapidly, and the pancreas will not be shocked into producing more insulin. The blood sugar, hence, will not be used up at an excessive rate.

Along with this, a mild sedative is often given, because from experience we know that the intense, hard-driving go-getter type is more often found to be the victim of hypoglycemia. (The same is true of peptic ulcers.) If the patient's attitude or circumstances change, the trouble frequently clears.

In some individuals, it is helpful to eat, say, six meals a day instead of three to ward off the periods of low blood sugar. The patient with hypoglycemia should be checked periodically for diabetes because in some cases the low blood sugar is a forerunner of the reverse—too much blood sugar.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have two slightly raised and almost black marks on the inside of my lower lip and one on the upper lip. I have smoked heavily in the last year and these spots are at the place where I hold a cigarette. Is there a chance of this being skin cancer?—Mrs. E. H.

Black marks are not necessarily a sign of cancer, but I think it is significant that they occur where you hold a cigarette. The irritation, whether from smoke, heat, something in the paper, or other circumstance, could be a factor.

Like any other discoloration of the skin or other tissues, it must be seen to be evaluated.

NOTE TO MRS. M. A.: An ashtray diet does not cause weakness. The protein in it contributes to strength.

Steel-Bid Rigging Charged

LOS ANGELES (AP)—U.S. Steel, Kaiser Steel, four other companies and eight of the concerns' executives were indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of rigging bids and allocating western sales of large-size water pipe.

The firms were described as "six of the principal manufacturers of steel or concrete pressure pipe."

Khanh Tells U.S.

Give Us More Weapons

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Defense Secretary McNamara met here Tuesday to discuss the possibility of sending more U.S. resources into the crumbling war against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

McNamara, back from a tour of the Mekong delta battle area, attended a series of briefings at the American embassy in Saigon and the U.S. military assistance command headquarters.

MORE WEAPONS

The new strongman military ruler, Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, told McNamara he will need more weapons and equipment.

Khanh specifically stressed the need for more weapons for second-string military units — the self-defence corps, the civil guard and the hamlet militia.

According to figures released here, government forces lost more than 8,000 modern U.S. and French weapons to the guerrillas last year.

POLITICAL FORAY

McNamara spent Monday touring the Communist-controlled southern Mekong delta with Khanh in what amounted to a hand-shaking, speech-making political foray to demonstrate strong U.S. support for the Saigon military leader.

A Saigon newspaper noted editorially Tuesday the U.S. also pledged support for the regimes of the late Ngo Dinh Diem, and his successor, Maj.-Gen. Duong Van Minh, who was overthrown in January by Khanh.

Wilson 'Lie' Rapped

LONDON (Reuters) — Opposition Leader Harold Wilson Tuesday was threatened with libel action by a Conservative candidate who demanded an apology for what he called "a damned lie" made during a television interview given by Wilson Monday night.

Wilson was asked during the interview about a press report that referred to a slogan "If you want a Nigger for a neighbor—vote Labor."

SQUALID THING

The report also quoted the Conservative candidate at Smethwick, Peter Griffiths, as saying the slogan was the manifestation of popular feeling.

"I think that's an absolutely squalid and degrading thing for any Englishman or any member of the Commonwealth to say," Wilson replied.

ALLEGATION

He added that he understood it allegedly was made by the Conservative candidate at Smethwick.

Yesterday, Griffiths declared: "I have never used this phrase nor has any member of the Conservative party in Smethwick. It is only a lie. It is a damned lie."

Senators Drone On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The senate droned through its second day of debate Tuesday on whether to debate the Civil Rights Bill.

All signs pointed to days of talk ahead as southerners pressed their slowdown campaign. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, said his colleagues might talk for 10 days or more alone on his motion to call up the bill for floor debate.

"We do anticipate the debate will be long," Mansfield said. "I hope it will be carried on at a high level and that we will be able to bring this issue to a head."

LEADERSHIP THROUGH RESEARCH

In our many modern laboratories throughout the world, young scientists are hard at work. They are always seeking, searching, studying ways to improve our products.

Our tobaccos are the best money can buy. (We are now using over 20 grades of Virginia to blend each cigarette.) We have developed one of the finest filters in the world. Our paper is specially made from flax—and pure mountain water. And our cigarettes are produced by the most modern techniques in North America.

Still, our research men are never satisfied. Their work never ends. And every day, they help us move a step closer to the perfect cigarette.

Over the years, the time, money, equipment and scientific skill which we have invested in research have been most rewarding. We have brought to smokers these important "firsts":

The first king size cigarette in the world.

The first high porosity cigarette paper in the world.

We are proud of these major advances. Our competitors flatter us by copying them. But our concern is not with competitors. We are interested only in offering you the benefits of modern research first from Rothmans.

Nazi Revival

THE NAZIS ARE on the march again—and in Victoria.

During the past few weeks a number of local residents have been inundated with letters and pamphlets from an organization calling itself the Victoria Branch of the World Union National Socialists whose policy is to promote the idea that "Communism is Jewish."

Other letters have also been received in Victoria from the National White Americans Party of Atlanta, Georgia, though they bear a local postmark. These carry the same message with the addition of a sticker displaying the Hitlerite Swastika and the words: "This Time The World!"

The Victoria Nazis, however, though anxious to disseminate their disgusting literature, are apparently not yet ready to divulge their true identities. Their missives bear no return or office address and are signed with a pseudonym.

This method of operation could possibly be regarded as nothing but a joke—providing one did not remember that it was the same method used by the German Nazi Party before it became a national political force and the scourge of the civilized world.

Thus we would like to appeal to them to make themselves known. We would like to ask them to crawl out from under their stones and from the slime and seek psychiatric treatment. We would like to tell them that because we don't agree with them they needn't fear for their lives; there are no gas chambers or concentration camps here. They have nothing to worry about except what is in their warped and twisted minds.

But we would also tell them that if they do not make themselves known we shall seek them out and expose them for what they are—for Canadians want no part of their corruption.

A Travesty

A GROUP of artists in Toronto have taken exception to the rejection by that city's art gallery of one of a number of paintings submitted as part of an annual showing by the art society concerned. On the face of it—a picture of a can of dog food labelled "The Last Supper"—the rejection is amply justified.

But the artists cite this as being censorship and thus a dangerous precedent. They put themselves as far out on the limb as the picture itself. If every rejection of a painting, or any other work, by an art gallery is "censorship" then all decisions on a matter of choice are a form of censorship.

The opposite would mean that an art gallery would have to display all works submitted to it, which is patently absurd.

In support of the rejected painting, also, the artists' group are on grounds that question their sense either of values or ethical content. It is an affront to human sensibility that a picture showing a knife and a can of dog food should infringe by its title on what is universally a sacred connotation.

The creator of this panel, a commercial artist, seems himself to disagree with the objectors, for he says of his work that it is "humor not art," and belongs in the public foyer not a gallery.

It does not belong even there, and the humor is hard to find, except as a crude attempt at witicism of a commercial nature that does its author little credit.

There is no copyright in painting titles, only the restraint of good taste to prevent grotesque distortion of a title that is part of the Christian ethos. The Da Vinci masterpiece, "The Last Supper," reflects the core of the faith which this coming Easter will again be treasured throughout the world. And it is nothing short of sacrilege that it should be mocked by the commercial borrowing of this title.

It is astonishing, not only that anyone should offend so sacred a theme, but that any group of self-respecting artists should choose to submit the panel in question to an art gallery. They should have been the first to "censor" it.

Over-Zealous

MOST CITIZENS will agree with the general principle that where traffic movement and street-parking seriously conflict, the latter should yield way to the former. At times, however, the city engineering department seems a little over-zealous in its application of this reasoning. Such is the case in respect to its recommendation that parallel parking replace the remaining three blocks of angle parking on Yates Street.

East of Douglas this avenue is one of Victoria's widest, and if according to the engineers' reckoning there has been congestion in the section now affected, not many motorists will have been greatly bothered by it. There is some danger and disruption perhaps in angle-parked cars backing out of their stalls when traffic is heavy, but certainly not much more than in cars trying to back into parallel spaces in similar circumstances.

The change though, if carried through, will result in the elimination of about one-half the number of parking spaces between Blanshard and Cook, which is of legitimate concern to the businesses in that stretch and to their customers and others who frequently park there. It must also be of some moment to the city itself in regard to the loss of meter revenue.

The awkward and hazardous confluence of Yates with Fort does not encourage the use of Yates as an east-bound, cross-town artery. Until this situation is remedied—if ever—cutting down the parking would appear to be premature. Even then it may be unnecessary. But for now council could well take another look at the engineers' proposal.

A Bargain

MR SPEAKER: This question was asked earlier in this present session, if I am not mistaken.

Mr. Pigeon: I directed this question to the Secretary of State but I never received an answer. That is the main reason I am directing my question now to the right hon. gentleman.

Mr. Speaker: I must rule that the question is out of order.

Mr. Pigeon: On a question of privilege, Mr. Speaker, I think it is my privilege to address a question and to receive a proper answer. If the government or the Prime Minister is not ready to answer, the only way to proceed is to resign.

Some Hon. Members: Resign.
Right Hon. L. B. Pearson (Prime Minister): If the hon. member will promise to do that I will refuse to answer all his questions.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships,

It takes Hansard to spill the secrets—of the armory raids that have given fits to the defence department.

Victoria and Duncan have had their share of the losses.

Not that this means the Quebecois separatists have been on the loose here; rather perhaps that Vancouver Island keeps well to the fore.

An MP recently tabled a question as to the number and type of weapons that have been "stolen" from national defence properties since last September. And Hansard dutifully records the answer.

The big steals, of course, as per the state of alarm that sent the army scurrying into private schools, took place in Quebec. But the minor episodes include our own ballistics.

Listed are six bayonets removed from the Duncan Armory, perhaps only to cut firewood; and one rifle from the Bay Street Armory, the latter cited as from the Canadian Scottish Cadet Corps.

Maybe a cadet took his rifle home by mistake.

Anyway, there will be no more thefts, since the weapons have all been made more secure.

None of this is of sinister content, I judge and hope; merely a case of Vancouver Island keeping its place in the sun.

It was encouraging to note that the students of Uvic more than matched the eloquence and wits of their UBC rivals in a debate last week. Our boys are newcomers to this academic level but obviously they are out to make Point Grey step.

And when the Gordon Head campus gets into its full stride the lads and lassies at UBC can expect to meet stiff opposition in all fields of endeavor, academic and sporting alike.

As a leadoff, too, Uvic has scored an initial victory, winning hands down on the thesis that Nero fiddled while Rome burned.

They took the affirmative, while the UBC debaters seemed to deny their teachers by arguing that all history is bunk.

As a matter of fact there was some doubt as to what Nero was doing when his city went up in flames. He certainly didn't call out the fire brigade but it's been suggested it wasn't a fiddle that occupied his indifferent moments—but the bagpipe!

But I suppose if the Uvic students had thrust this instrument into the debate that would have set the UBC team in flight right off the bat.

They'd have been flogged completely—for no one in his senses can contend the bagpipe is bunk! Not if he values his safety, anyway.

If you plan an overseas trip and have a TCA flight bag in hand, don't throw it away. The new "Air Canada" caption won't be in force for at least a year.

So those magic initials have a while yet to proclaim their virtue.

It is a widely known virtue, the result of a fine record built up by Trans-Canada and causing the initials TCA to become almost a household word in Europe and round the world. Millions of dollars have been spent to make TCA a symbol of dependable air transport.

Why throw such an asset away, you well might wonder? The fact that the airline now outraces the "trans" prefix of its name is no criterion; the Colonist doesn't dream of changing its title because B.C. is no longer a colony.

Worthwhile slogans and captions are worth hanging on to.

I suppose it's mere coincidence that "Air Canada" is how Trans-Canada Air Lines has been known in the confines of Quebec.

"Absolutely! We should stay out of foreign affairs and we should make other countries do as we say."

Tiniest Building Blocks?

Looking for the Quarks

ARE we just a lot of quarks? This bizarre name (taken from James Joyce's "Finnegans Wake") has been given to three tiny splinters of matter which have just been predicted by theoretical physicists.

If the theory is correct the three quarks could be the ultimate building blocks of matter. Small clusters of quarks make particles like the omega-minus, the discovery of which has just been announced. Bigger clusters form atoms.

All material things are made from atoms—so, in effect, the whole world, including our own bodies, might be nothing but an assembly of quarks.

The story of the quark has been spreading rapidly round the narrow circle of nuclear physicists.

Some are sceptical. To accept the quark means abandoning at least long-established physical law: that the smallest unit of electricity is the charge carried by an electron. Quarks would have one-third, or two-thirds of this supposedly indivisible unit.

This heretical state of affairs has made excitement all the greater, and physicists are creeping quietly away to re-examine results of earlier experiments to see if they contain some unsuspected tell-tale trace of the elusive quark.

"Science is not like religion," one of them said. "You can look at the devil without disgracing yourself."

In Europe the biggest quark hunt is going on just outside Geneva within yards of the French border. There, at the European Centre for Nuclear Research (CERN), a community of scientists works around the rim of a giant accelerating machine, 650 feet in diameter, one of the two largest in existence.

There an American PhD, George Zweig—he is 26 and looks even younger—thought up the heretical particles.

Already, at California Institute of Technology, Professor Murray Gell-Mann was independently putting forward what amounts to an identical theory, although the reasoning behind it is rather different.

Gell-Mann picked the name quarks for the particles. Zweig, choosing terminology, called his particles "aces" and combinations of two and three aces "Deuces and Treys."

From The London Sunday Times

Both men started from the same point: The theory of unitary symmetry, which Gell-Mann developed to systematize the multitude of subatomic particles which were embarrassing the theoreticians. It was this theory that was confirmed when the omega-minus particle, which Gell-Mann had predicted, was discovered by Brookhaven National Laboratory, New York.

George Zweig knew the theory well, for he had worked with Gell-Mann in California before getting a grant from the U.S. Air Force to work as a visitor at CERN.

Mathematically the symmetrical patterns into which Gell-Mann found it possible to fit most of the known subatomic particles are made up of a simple threefold symmetry. If this mathematical trick happens to apply also in nature, it implies that particles like omega-minus are made up of three kinds of simpler particles: quarks or aces.

"The theory is attractive because it is simple and elegant," Dr. Mervyn Hine, head of applied physics at CERN, explained. "It uses the minimum of hypotheses but it's really only a mathematical guess. From whether or not it works you can conclude whether God is for the mathematicians or against them."

Gell-Mann has just published his version of the theory in a newly-established European periodical called "Physics Letters." Zweig's longer paper is still only an unpublished CERN report which his colleagues call the "acey, deucey, trey paper."

But however much they may joke about aces and quarks or laugh that Gell-Mann didn't have the face to publish such a zany paper in his own country, the search is on—and since Gell-Mann's omega-minus prediction proved true, cynicism has waned.

Charles Peyrou and a team of international physicists and Genevise girls have already searched carefully through a stock of 100,000 "bubble-chamber" photographs.

These photographs had been taken as beams of subatomic particles were fired from the accelerator through a bath of boiling liquid hydrogen. As they flash through, charged particles leave a trail of tiny bubbles in the hydrogen from which their nature can be determined.

"It shouldn't be too difficult to recognize a quark," Peyrou explained. (He was squinting sideways along the screen where two of the photographs were projected.) "A quark with one-third charge will make a track only a ninth as strong as an ordinary particle. So you just look for the weak ones."

But all this labor has so far proved fruitless. No weak tracks have been found, so isolated quarks, if they exist at all, must be very uncommon creatures. Or perhaps, besides having a small electric charge, they have rather a high mass, and so can only be created by an extremely powerful accelerating machine.

The next stage in the search at CERN is a special experiment. The idea is to obtain optimum conditions for quark production. The big 28 billion volt accelerator will be used to speed hydrogen nuclei to almost the velocity of light. The beam will be directed at a tungsten target, where the fierce collisions between atoms produce a shower of atomic debris, including perhaps some quark pairs.

A powerful magnet then diverts the majority of the debris, at the same time directing the one-third charge quarks (if any) into the bath of hydrogen. Any bubbles they produce will be photographed with three cameras.

The hydrogen bath, which with its magnet weighs several hundred tons, has the pompous title British National Bubble Chamber.

What are the chances of the experiment succeeding? Since none have been found so far, isolated quarks must be very rare, but it is anybody's guess whether this more highly organized experiment will do the trick.

"I would need just two photographs with tracks on them to be convinced of their existence," says Peyrou.

If those two photographs should turn up the consequences will be enormous. One of the quarks should be a stable particle, so there would be an immediate search to find them in nature, produced by cosmic rays.

And if matter really is made up of these three simple particles, the nuclear physicist may have given a lead to the cosmologist, for the quark might give a clue to how the universe all began.

No Cause for Dissension

As man endeavors, past, present and future, to reach upward and outward, this planet Earth is reduced to a tiny speck in the cosmic universe, and man as such an infinitesimal part of it.

This century has contributed more scientific advancement than any previous age, with undreamed of broadening of horizons.

It seems to me ridiculous that this is the moment when man concerns himself with boundaries, and that there are Canadians quibbling about what language shall be spoken in this or that part of Canada.

Language is not essential to progress for thought is boundless. In the final analysis, language of itself does not create unity. Surely then it should not be a cause of dissension. Switzerland serves as a perfect example of co-existence; there are four languages spoken within its tiny borders.

Disarmament

I read Khrushchev's message to all heads of state or government. Seeing that we were not—as he said—ready to discuss total disarmament, Khrushchev proposed that all disputes between states, on one important issue, be settled by arbitration; to "undertake to settle all territorial disputes exclusively by peaceful means."

We say we have the will to disarm. Surely then the above suggestion as a first step to disarmament is acceptable? President Johnson's reply was that it was not objective. Prime Minister Pearson agreed.

Are we governed by people without courage? I hear from Washington that one Polaris sub is capable of killing 27

For Consumers

Complaint Bureau

By JOYCE EGGINTON from New York

PRESIDENT Johnson made an unusual appointment early this year which he hopes will be the first of many to bring women into his administration. He gave Mrs. Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor, the additional job of special assistant for consumer affairs—a new post which entails examining the complaints of housewives and seeing what the government can do about them.

Mrs. Peterson, a tall, grey-haired woman of 57, told the cabinet with some delight: "The day is over when top jobs are reserved for men. This nation needs to use the brain power of American women at the highest policy level."

In the ensuing weeks Mrs. Peterson's energies have been stretched beyond her own imagining. She was prepared for a flood of housewives' letters, but they have been arriving by the avalanche. She gives her personal attention to about a hundred letters a day, and when there isn't time to read them in the office, she takes them home to read in bed.

They concern the many shopping annoyances which make housewives feel they have been cheated, from which they have little redress. They write of the electric switches on vacuum cleaners, toasters and food mixers which never last the lifetime of the appliance; of the articles guaranteed for 12 months which seem timed to wear out after a year and a day; of seams which unravel, buttonholes which fray, of material which "doesn't last like it used to." Of the illustrations on packages of frozen food which glamorize the contents beyond recognition.

Some of the letters which her assistants pass on for Mrs. Peterson's personal attention strike her as particularly shocking. There was the woman from Massachusetts, confined to her home in a wheel chair, who sent her son out to choose some furniture. He came home with an installment plan agreement which she realized, too late, committed her to paying almost twice the value of the goods over a specified period. There was the woman from New York who told of a hearing-aid salesman coming to her door with a device which purported to measure a person's degree of deafness. His experimentation with her indicated that she needed two hearing aids, at a cost of $600, when her own doctor's tests had shown that she needed only one.

Many complaints reflect dissatisfaction with a system from which personal service has almost vanished and the supermarket has taken over. There are the heart-cries of single people who, faced with no choice but pre-packed goods, no longer find it possible to buy one lemon or one lamb chop. There is the revolt against the so-called "economy" packages which aren't economical at all—and the business of misleading labelling in which detergents and toothpaste are classified "jumbo," "king-size" and "family size," in place of the more accurate descriptions "small," "medium" and "large."

It was Churchill who was First Lord of the Admiralty in 1914, who ordered the fleet to its battle stations without waiting for cabinet approval. "There is one thing they can never take from you," he was told by Lord Kitchener later in the war, "the fleet was ready."

And when Churchill returned to the government in 1939, under Prime Minister Chamberlain, after long years in the political wilderness, it was to the Admiralty he went. "Winston is back" was the signal sent to the fleet.

And now some bureaucrats want to change the name to "Navy Board." But it's all right, the House of Lords has put them in their place.

million people; that "we" will have 37 subs by 1965, and that all this is but one iota of our total killing power.

Let us refuse to commit suicide. Our practical man knows we should make a start to disarm. Must Khrushchev or the late Pope John have to tell us that the practical man and ethical man make the whole man? I refuse to think so. It is not that we might be virtuous; merely civilized.

Municipal Hall

Re your recent article regarding the sale of the Young Building—as a Saanich taxpayer I would appreciate knowing why Saanich council is so reluctant about buying this property.

On one hand the council contemplates building a new administrative building of 33,000 square feet at a cost of $785,000 or approximately $23.80 per square foot. Against this, the Young Building of 35,000 square feet with six acres of landscaped grounds would cost $150,000 or approximately $2.75 per square foot and a saving of some $635,000 to the Saanich taxpayers.

Admiralty

Glorious Name

From the Gazette, Montreal

THE Admiralty is to remain the Admiralty. The British government had hoped to change its name to the "Navy Board." But the House of Lords wasted no time in dismissing this outrageous proposal.

The word Admiralty summons up an image of great and famous days in a way that "Navy Board" could never hope to do. It pictured a far-flung line of ships that ruled the waves and kept the peace for so long.

It can well be imagined what Sir Winston Churchill must have said when he heard of this proposal. But what he said would probably not be printable. For Churchill twice held the office of First Lord of the Admiralty at a critical time in Britain's history, and he gloried in the name.

It was Churchill who was First Lord of the Admiralty in 1914, who ordered the fleet to its battle stations without waiting for cabinet approval. "There is one thing they can never take from you," he was told by Lord Kitchener later in the war, "the fleet was ready."

Hydro Charter Bill Passes Despite NDP

A bill giving the B.C. Hydro Authority a fresh charter was given final reading in the legislature Tuesday despite renewed New Democratic Party complaints over a section that would prevent strikes by Hydro workers.

Alex Macdonald (NDP, Vancouver East) and Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby) restated views that the requirement for binding conciliation of contract disputes was arbitrary.

Mr. Dowling said past operations of Hydro have shown no need for such legislation, "and legislation without reason is dictatorship."

Alan Macfarlane (L. Oak Bay) said the bill denied the right of appeal for those whose property was expropriated by Hydro and Hydro was being placed outside the authority of the legislature.

The government has indicated the bill's proclamation will hinge on outcome of planned appeal proceedings revolving around constitutionality of Hydro's 1962 formation.

Final reading of the bill was approved by voice vote.

A bill amending the home-owner's grant act to earmark the grant for schools purposes ahead of other municipal spending was approved.

Also approved was the bill that makes Victoria's voting day the same as that of other municipalities and allows Victoria barbers to choose their own closing days.

Campus Sale Studied

University of Victoria officials will meet tonight to discuss plans for sale of the Lansdowne campus.

A group of Lansdowne area women plans to ask the school board to buy the buildings as a senior high school, vocation school or adult education centre.

Catholic officials are interested in a possible separate school, the school board may seek the Paul building as an administrative centre and Saanich the Young building as a municipal hall.

Gas Storage

B.C. Does Know Assets From Hole in Ground

Who says the B.C. government doesn't know its assets from a hole in the ground?

It plans to lease underground holes in the lower mainland for storage of gas from northern British Columbia.

The scheme was contained in Bill 63 — An Act Respecting Underground Storage of Hydrocarbons — which was given second reading, approval in principle, in the legislature yesterday.

Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Kenneth Kierman told the House gas taken LONDON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth II gave birth Tuesday night to her fourth child — a son who becomes third in line of succession to the British throne.

The official palace announcement said:

"The Queen was safely delivered of a son at 8:20 p.m. (12:20 noon PST) this evening.

"Her Majesty and the infant prince are both well."

Labor Income Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor income in Canada last year totalled $21,550,000,000, up 6.8 per cent from the 1962 figure of $20,181,000,000, the bureau of statistics says.

Queen Bears Third Son

The bulletin was signed by a team of five physicians headed by Sir John Peel, 59, the surgeon-gynecologist who has attended the birth of each of the Queen's children.

The infant prince — the 37-year-old Queen's third son — follows Prince Charles, the 15-year-old Prince of Wales, and four-year-old Prince Andrew in line of succession to the throne.

ANNE MOVES DOWN

Princess Anne, 13, became fourth in line.

The new baby, whose names have not yet been announced, was born in the famous Belgian suite at Buckingham Palace, which is usually reserved for visiting heads of state.

PHILIP 'DELIGHTED'

Prince Philip said after the birth: "I am delighted."

The new baby was placed in a cradle originally made for the birth of Queen Elizabeth and used for all her four children. The iron cradle is painted cream, trimmed with peach satin under a deep cream-spotted net, and has an eiderdown of peach satin.

Members of the household at the palace toasted the arrival of the new prince with champagne.

No further bulletin on the Queen and the new prince was scheduled until today. It was announced. The new prince's weight was not disclosed.

SECOND OF FOUR

The Queen's child is the second of four royal babies expected early this year. The first — a leap year baby born Feb. 29 — was the son of 27-year-old Princess Alexandra and her husband, Scottish businessman Angus Ogilvy.

Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, are expecting their second child at the end of April. The Duchess of Kent, wife of the Queen's cousin the Duke of Kent, expects her second child early in May.

Day in Legislature

Clubs Ask Law On Road Rights

B.C. outdoorsmen said Tuesday a provincial act establishing the public's rights of access to private roads should be introduced "at the earliest possible date."

The B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs brief to the legislature's special committee on access said single use of crown land "is a narrow and wasteful policy which denies the citizen the right to travel by normal means to lands which are his in the right of the crown."

A bill which would regulate contributions to blind people was modified in the legislature yesterday by Provincial Secretary Black. It proposes a three-man Contributions to the Blind Board which would control collection of money for the blind.

Mr. Black assured the House no single group will dominate the board, and said he will set up an appeal procedure under which appeals against decisions of the board can be made directly to himself. He also brought in an amendment which states that nothing in the act applies to work done by blind or partly blind persons for personal income purposes.

The department of mines will catch up to the 20th century by revising its service fees.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kierman told the legislature yesterday Bill 62, An Act to Amend the Mineral Act, deals with revision of fees for services rendered on mineral claims and transactions.

The last time the fees were revised probably "was back before the turn of the century when a day's wages for a miner was about $2," he said.

Agriculture Minister Richter assured the House provincial and federal authorities are working hand-in-hand on the use of insecticides. He said there is adequate protection.

Flag Lesson Learned By Red Cross Here

The Red Cross flag will fly no more over Victoria during the annual fund drive.

A spokesman said last night the flag, which disappeared overnight Friday at the Causeway after it had been hoisted to fly through the March campaign, would not be replaced.

"We have learned our lesson," he said.

Debate at Varsity

Three Parties Agree Socreds Should Go

The leaders of B.C.'s three opposition parties proved to University of Victoria students yesterday the only thing they agree upon is that the present government should be replaced.

NDP leader Robert Strachan, Liberal leader Ray Perrault and Conservative leader Davie Fulton all held their own party provided the answer to the question posed by the political science forum, Who Can Provide the Best Alternative Government for B.C.?

Mr. Strachan cited the NDP's long experience as the official Opposition in the legislature and its position as the only party opposed to free enterprise as qualifications for its assuming the task of government.

"Free enterprise parties always have to adopt socialist solutions, anyway," he said.

Mr. Perrault said the Liberal party is the only feasible alternative to the present government because of its representation in the House, the fact that it is not a socialist party, and its adherence to small "i" and large "I" Liberal policies.

Mr. Fulton commented that while the fact he did not hold a seat in the legislature could not be termed a virtue, he had perhaps a better perspective of it, and claimed only the Conservative party could provide an overall plan and sense of direction and "recreate an atmosphere of respect and cordiality."

While the opposition leaders lamented the absence of a government representative at the debate, this did not stop them from aligning the government with Mr. Bennett "a streamlined Strachan" and Mr. Strachan calling Mr. Bennett "a Tory in pink underwear."

Wilkinson Jail Fugitive Elects Trial by Judge

Frank Carlow, who said he escaped from the Wilkinson Road jail, then gave himself up to bring attention to poor conditions at the jail, elected trial by judge when he appeared in Saanich magistrate's court yesterday.

It was Carlow's third appearance in court since giving himself up to newsmen Feb. 28. He is represented by Victoria lawyer Jack Gatehouse, who was appointed by the Victoria Bar Association to defend Carlow under the free legal aid program.

Carlow was remanded one week for preliminary hearing. Mr. Gatehouse said he expects the case to be heard in county court about two weeks after the hearing is completed.

He said he wants it heard as soon as possible because Carlow is being kept in isolation at the jail.

Leonard J. Hibberson, 1513 Amphion, was fined $300 and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty in city court to a charge of impaired driving. Court was told Hibberson was seen weaving across the centre of Market Street March 2 when stopped by police. He agreed to take a breathalyzer test, and got a reading of .22 per cent blood-alcohol content.

"You are a most depressing case," Magistrate Ostler told a youth in city court.

"You have been given every opportunity, yet you got into trouble soon after being released on parole Jan. 2."

Harry Marshall Smith was facing sentence on two charges of breaking and entering. He was sentenced to two years less a day definite and one year indeterminate in a young offenders unit on each charge. The sentences will run concurrently.

A youth was given a suspended sentence, placed on a year's probation, and ordered to place a $300 bond to be of good behavior for one year when he appeared in city court on a charge of possession of stolen goods over the value of $50.

James Wayne Warren was also given a one-day jail sentence until arrangements can be made for him to return immediately to his home in Manitoba.

John Somerville, 145 Sims, was fined $250 in Colwood court Monday on a charge of impaired driving.

Court was told Somerville crashed into a telephone pole on the Trans-Canada Highway Saturday, and ended up in the parking lot of a motel after the accident. His driver's licence was also suspended.

Libya Wants Bases From Britain, U.S.

BENGHAZI (Reuters) — The Libyan government has asked Britain and the U.S. to begin negotiations on liquidation of their bases in Libya, Premier Mahmoud Muntasser told parliament here.

Worker Hurled By Blast

An explosion aboard a barge at the foot of Yates Street at 9 a.m. yesterday threw a man into the water suffering shock and burns to his face, hip and arm.

Douglas McGowan, 47, of 3213 Linwood, was reported in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital last night. Police said the explosion was the result of a fire which started from fuel seepage under a barge owned by the Pacific Pile Driving Co.

McGowan and two other employees were using an acetylene torch to repair a pump on the small barge when a spark ignited the fuel. The fire was extinguished by an Island Tug.

'Human Fly' Flees As Woman Yells

A prowler who was discovered trying to enter an eighth-floor apartment at Beacon Towers, 240 Douglas, through a balcony window early yesterday has been described by police as a "human fly."

The man climbed up the outside of the building from balcony to balcony, stole $75 from a purse in the seventh-floor apartment of Jean Maguire, then continued up one floor where he was seen.

A woman in the eighth-floor apartment heard a noise on her patio, about 100 feet above the ground, opened the curtains and saw the man standing at her door.

REACHED GROUND

She screamed and the man fled, swinging from balcony to balcony until he reached the ground.

Tele-Tech Services, 1202 Wharf, which Monday reported $1,230 worth of cash and goods stolen over the weekend, yesterday told police two tape recorders worth about $1,200 were also stolen in the same raid, but had not previously been missed.

Corporation of the District of Saanich MUNICIPAL WATER SUPPLY

The annual flushing of water mains and fire hydrants within the Municipality will be carried out during the month of March. This will have a widespread effect on the distribution system, causing a harmless and temporary discoloration of the water in some areas. It is not possible to define those areas exactly. Therefore all consumers are advised to take note that their individual supply may be affected.

Business establishments, and others, to whom the color of the water is of prime importance, should advise the Water Works Superintendent at the Municipal Yard, 1040 McKenzie Ave., Tel. GR 9-1633. Every reasonable precaution will be taken. However, the Corporation cannot accept responsibility for damage, if any, caused by the use of discolored water.

Woodward's MAYFAIR

The History of Royal Worcester

Royal Worcester is the only English China that has been in constant production for over 200 years. Established at Worcester, by Dr. John Wall in 1751, the factory was from the outset noted for its beautiful figurines and ornamental ware. The exquisite craftsmanship of Worcester earned the royal patronage of King George III, and today the same skill is still evident in every piece of Royal Worcester.

Open Stock Dinnerware

Selection of dinnerware patterns that range from pure white simplicity to elegant designs and rich colorings are displayed here! 5-piece place settings (dinner plate, luncheon plates, bread/butter plate, cup-saucer) ... range

From 12.95 to 65.00

Illustrated: "June Garland" Floral, edged in gold. 5-piece set.

Oven-to-Tableware

Royal Worcester porcelain of delicate beauty, yet so versatile and sturdy for oven to table use. A varied selection is seen, including casseroles, bowls, entrée dishes in rich colors and designs. Decorative gifts of enduring beauty and usefulness. Come and see!

Garden Notes

A Place in the Sun

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

As I mentioned in yesterday's column, the first of our Colonist Free Seed offers for 1964 is on, with seeds of the new Starfire tomato. I am really hopped up over this tomato, and I am most anxious all my gardening friends take a crack at growing it, if only to find out how a tomato really should taste.

It is a fairly common thing for an old-time gardener to come up to me and complain tomatoes nowadays don't taste as good as when he was a boy. Sometimes this is blamed on the use of chemical fertilizers and synthetic sprays, but I think the deterioration in flavor has been due to the breeding program. Plant breeders in the past have had in mind the commercial grower, and his prime demand has been for a good shipper—a tomato with a hide so tough it can be shipped halfway across the continent without damage. Flavor has been a secondary consideration.

The project of recapturing the old-time meaty tomato flavor in a modern, early-ripening tomato was undertaken in a co-operative breeding program involving seven experimental farms across Canada. I think my elderly friends, when they sink their teeth into a vine-ripened Starfire, will agree the job has been well and truly done. If you have no vegetable plot in your backyard, don't let that stop you from sending for your free seeds of Starfire, for this plant is ornamental enough to take its place among the flowers in the mixed border. It makes a neat and compact plant, about a foot tall and 22 inches in spread, with the clusters of brilliant orange-red fruits held high on strong branches near the middle of the bush. And if the idea of growing tomatoes in a flower bed seems strange to you, remember the "love apple" was grown originally as an ornamental plant, for it was believed its fruits were poisonous!

In telling you how to start these seeds, I am going to presume you are just an ordinary backyard gardener, with no greenhouse, no electrically-heated coldframe or any other special seed-raising facilities except perhaps a nice sunny kitchen window sill, a sunroom or an unheated sun porch.

The big problem for those of us who have to start our tender seeds without a proper greenhouse is to find a place where the baby plants will get lots of sunshine all day long, but where the air temperature will remain fairly cool. Tomato seeds need a lot of warmth for rapid and vigorous germination—between 75 and 80 degrees is ideal—but as soon as the tiny plants appear above ground, they should be shifted to much cooler quarters but with plenty of sunshine. Too much warmth or insufficient sun will make for tall, spindly growth and such lanky plants never perform anything like as well as the short, stocky specimens.

As I say, it isn't easy to find a place in the house where this combination of cool air and bright sunshine exists, for most sunny windows are too warm. A spare room with a big, south-facing window is good, for you can shut it off from the rest of the house and ventilate freely without making the living quarters too chilly. An unheated sunporch also works well, leaving the door open to the fresh air on warm days. Failing these, good plants can be raised by standing the pots right outdoors in the open on balmy, sunny days and bringing them indoors when the temperature drops below 45 degrees.

ART BUCHWALD Reveals Secret Plane

First the A-11, Now This!

WASHINGTON — When President Johnson revealed at his press conference that the United States had developed a 2,000-mile-an-hour, fighter-interceptor plane, the A-11, superior to any aircraft in the world today, he made headlines all over the world.

This top-secret story had been kept under wraps for five years and it is believed that the only reason the president finally released the details to the press is that he didn't have any other news to give them that day.

But the plane the President failed to mention, which is far superior to the A-11 and is more radical than anything ever developed, is the PJ-306.

Despite pleas from the defence department to keep the PJ-306 story a secret, we have decided to reveal the facts about it as we believe that if the president can blow the story on a secret plane so can we.

We first heard about the PJ-306 when we visited Evreux Air Force Base in France during the spring of 1960. An officer who had had too much to drink told us that the air force was working on a plane that could fly so slow that nothing could hit it. Its maximum speed was 100 miles an hour with a good tail wind, or seven times less than the speed of sound.

He told us that the air force had been concerned for a long time over the Soviet development of supersonic aircraft. The air force, to keep up, demanded faster planes for itself until both sides had developed planes so fast that they couldn't see each other.

At this stage the joint chiefs of staff decided they needed a new plane which would catch the Soviets completely off guard. They needed a plane so slow that no fast Soviet fighter could shoot it down.

Everyone said it was impossible to develop such a fighter and all the major airplane manufacturers were reluctant to work on it. So the air force turned the contract over to the Spad Aircraft Co.

The Spad designers and engineers worked on it for two years before coming up with the solution. They developed a bi-wing plane with one wing over the cockpit and one below it.

But then they ran into engine trouble. Every jet engine they put on the plane made it fall apart. When all looked lost, someone developed a radically new kind of engine, which they called a propeller engine.

Although it sounds like science fiction, this engine has a large wooden stick on the nose, and when the engine is started up, the wooden stick turns and pulls air through the plane to give it buoyancy.

Air Force generals didn't believe it was possible, but after the first trials at a secret air base they saw the plane take off and fly to an altitude of 500 feet in 20 minutes.

They were so impressed that they immediately ordered 500 of them and gave Spad the green light to go ahead.

Unfortunately, there were further delays. In order to have any value the plane had to be armed. Spad placed a 50-calibre machine gun in the cockpit. But every time the pilot fired the gun he shot off his own propeller.

Finally the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was given the problem. They developed a method of synchronizing the machine gun with the turn of the prop.

The plane was ready to go into production.

The new plane has many innovations. The cockpit is open, so the pilot may jump out of his plane if hit. The landing gear is stationary, which gives the PJ-306 added slowness.

So far nothing in the Air Force has been able to catch it, and in practice dogfights the PJ-306 has shot down 367 jet fighters.

Angelo Adore$ Alicia

Whatever happened to Linda Christian Furdum? ... I can tell you what has happened recently to Alicia Furdum Clark, the richest widow in the world—she inherited about $10,000,000 from Alfred Corning Clark. She is the pride, joy and love light in the eyes of Italian actor Angelo Infanti.

Don Murray, born in Hollywood, tells me, "I never met anyone else born in Hollywood except an airline stewardess." Don is living temporarily in New York City, to promote his new film, One Man's Way, the film biography of Dr. Nathan Leopold.

I have had many letters asking me about the late Alan Ladd, chiefly was he working in a film at the time of his death. He had finished The Carpetbaggers to be released in June. He has a good role in the picture.

Producer Stanley Shapiro is in New York to see Anne Bancroft about starring in The Favor with Rock Hudson. Anne will be flying to Hollywood to present the best-performance Oscar to the winning actor next month. She won the award last year for the best actress, if you remember. For The Miracle Worker.

The film version of The Best Man was Lee Tracy's first movie in 16 years. He's excellent and looks fine. Lee is celebrating his 37th year in show business ... And Stanley Kramer is after Diana Hyland for one of the starring roles in his Ship of Fools. Diana is excellent as Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale in One Man's Story. She'll be going to Rome soon for a vacation and to see her attractive Italian boy friend.

Playwright George Axelrod's Italian discovery, Virna Lisi—she co-stars with Jack Lemmon in How to Kill Your Wife—is getting the Marilyn Monroe "overhaul" treatment. Especially in the hair department—it's bright blonde. She brought her brother to act as her interpreter in Hollywood. Also a $14,000 sportscar. She has a very rich husband back home.

Another Clamp Left Inside

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Fred Cass of Ontario said yesterday he has ordered an inquest into the death of a woman in whose body a surgical clamp was left after an operation.

He identified the woman as Mrs. Ena Noer, 54, who died in hospital in Palmerston, Ont., last Saturday.

Mr. Cass said that Mrs. Noer underwent surgery eight days prior to her death.

The surgical clamp was found in the peritoneal cavity when an autopsy was conducted.

Palmerston is about 30 miles north of Stratford.

Mr. Cass made the announcement in the legislature.

Outlining the circumstances outside the House, leading up to the order for an inquest, Mr. Cass said that when the autopsy showed the surgical instrument in the abdomen, Dr. Frank Farmer, Palmerston coroner, was notified.

No date has been set for the inquest.

The case follows on the heels of that of Patricia Morgan, who

Cyprus Peace Force Stalled Another Week

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — UN officials said Tuesday it may be a week or more before a Cyprus peace force can be organized.

(See also Page 17)

The force was authorized by the Security Council a week ago today. So far Secretary-General U Thant has reported no firm commitments of either men or money for the force although Sweden has agreed conditionally to supply a contingent.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin said "failure to clarify the role of an international peace-keeping force" was holding up the Canadian commitment to send troops to Cyprus.

In Nicosia, the Turkish-Cypriot vice-president of Cyprus urged the UN to take swift action to save the Turkish minority from "complete annihilation" on this island of violence.

The appeal of Dr. Fazil Karuk came as Archbishop Makarios, the Greek-Cypriot president, accused Turkish extremists of deliberately creating incidents.

Makarios' government meanwhile announced its forces had overwhelmed Turkish-Cypriots in a day-long battle in the village of Mallia, in southwest Cyprus.

Tisdalle Stills Legislature

His speeches cataloguing so-called accomplishments often seem to coincide with the needs of MLAs and cabinet ministers to be elsewhere.

The moving speech brought immediate respect from opposition speakers who for hours had lashed the government's program for the retarded.

Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby), one of the loudest critics, apologized for any intemperate language he might have used.

Mr. Tisdalle, he added, had crystallized the situation.

"I admire him."

NDP social service critic David Barrett said the Saanich member had caped what parents of Woodlands patients have been saying for years.

"When we say it," he added, "we are accused of cheap politics. It would be disgraceful if the member for Saanich is accused of cheap politics."

The Saanich MLA's speech was in sharp contrast to earlier exchanges on the Woodlands issue.

Mr. Dowling said the health minister should be cited for contempt of court for making public statements in connection with a case involving Woodlands which is still before the courts.

Island Man Tells Probe:

Keep Gas Prices Free

Dutch-born John Boersen, an Imperial Oil service station dealer at Port Alberni, yesterday told the royal commission on gasoline price structure: "I came here from Europe. I came here because it's a free country and not a nationalized. Now Canada wants to go back to the system they have in Europe."

He was answering questions put to him in cross-examination by Cyril Shefford, MLA for Omineca, who asked if Mr. Boersen thought the government should set the price of gasoline or did he prefer the companies to set the price.

FREE ENTERPRISE

"It's in favor of free enterprise," Mr. Boersen said, "not government interference. Companies set the prices of other products I buy—there's much more freedom."

Mr. Boersen told commissioner Judge C. W. Morrow it was common knowledge in Port Alberni some dealers gave "under-the-counter discounts" on gasoline.

Queen, Beatles et Al Unforgettable Thrill

By KEN JOHNSON

Back from a trip to England is attractive, dark-haired Dorothy Edgelow, 50 Thetis Lake Road, thrilled by 10 months she'll never forget.

Dorothy, 23, daughter of city Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, met the Queen; saw the Beatles; rode to hounds; met author Ian Fleming, creator of James Bond; went to the Ascot races, worked for a London lawyer and took a three-month course at an English riding school.

CANT WAIT

"It was wonderful," Dorothy says. "I can't wait to go back for a holiday."

Primarily, Dorothy went to take the riding course at the Cadogan Riding Stables, Holport, near Maidenhead.

The Edgelows have relatives in England, where Dorothy's grandparents were born. She got a secretarial job when she arrived, with a Park Avenue lawyer, and stayed in an apartment in the Thames Valley.

This way, she was able to see the sights of London—"a great experience in itself."

While at the riding school, Dorothy was invited to ride with the Garth and South Berkshire Hunt.

"My cousins in England are in the race-horse business," said Dorothy. "So one day we went to Ascot. They had a box next to the Royal Box, and you can imagine my surprise when the Queen arrived, looked across and said hello."

BEAT QUEEN

"We curtsied and she smiled back. Then my cousin's horse Nanaretta beat the Queen's horse Apprentice in one of the races."

One night, Dorothy paid a trip to Slough to see a Beatles show—and immediately became an avid fan. Another evening, she was invited to a literary cocktail party in Hyde Park Gate—next door to Sir Winston Churchill.

"There I met Ian Fleming," she said. "I hadn't read any James Bond novels until then."

Now Dorothy is back home, looking after horses again. Her horse Blaze has an English-style saddle.

BOB KENNEDY To Quit After Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy made it clear Tuesday he won't be attorney-general after the administration's present term expires.

"I'm not going to remain an attorney-general after November," Kennedy told a junior high school assembly.

An aide said later Kennedy didn't mean to set November as a deadline for resigning, leaving open the possibility he will stay on the job until President Johnson's term expires next Jan. 20. He also emphasized Kennedy wasn't saying anything he hadn't said before.

In the past, the 38-year-old attorney-general has said he will remain in his cabinet job through the November election period.

Health Minister Told

'Time You Found Out Where You're Going'

Health Minister Eric Martin was told in the legislature last night it is high time he found out where he is going with his department.

The criticism came when he said during debate on his departmental estimates he has not received a copy of a report on Lower Mainland chronic hospital planning prepared by a B.C. Medical Association team.

Pat McGeer (L, Vancouver-Point Grey) told the House 13 copies of the report were mailed to the minister Feb. 14, and that the minister is either deliberately deceiving the legislature or has a total lack of knowledge of what is going on in his department.

Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby), not satisfied with the answer Mr. Martin gave the Liberal member, asked whether the minister received "a communication" from the B.C. Medical Association team.

"I've answered that question. I'm not in a court of law and I won't be submitted to this cross-examination," snapped Mr. Martin.

M. Dowling replied that the minister did not deserve his salary because "he doesn't answer questions in this legislature. He doesn't do his homework."

"It is time the minister took stock of where he is going with his department. He is dealing with the lives of thousands of human beings," Mr. Dowling said.

LIZ AND DICK IN CANADA!

...the shocking, untold story What really happened when the most celebrated lovers of this century stayed in Toronto? Here are the facts you didn't know! In this week's Star Weekly, Canadian writer June Callwood tells of the leering Canadians—"a lynch mob full of hate"—who pushed close to Liz and Dick to shout obscenities...of Toronto patricians who withheld their hospitality, at least until the bravest went first...of the bobby-soxers and black-jacketed teen-agers who cluttered the hotel lobby for a glimpse of the lovely, fragile beauty of Liz and the virile ruggedness of Dick. Writing with complete candor, June Callwood tells why she believes Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton may never attain real happiness, and why, even today, they do not go unpunished.

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Within the next few weeks Andrew McGregor hopes to open up his new nine-hole course at the south end of Prospect Lake. With a par-33 course boasting three unusual par-three holes and at least a couple of long, testing, par fours, Andy has been an exciting little course out of forest and scrub.

Once the level of Prospect Lake falls a little to clear flooding on two low lying fairways, the new course will be about ready for play. The greens seeded a year ago are coming into shape and within a few weeks should be in good putting condition.

McGregor's course is full of interesting and unusual features. At almost all of the par four holes the drive must be placed accurately in order to give an open shot to the green. Most of these have a backdrop of forest land or water and are tightly guarded on the approach by an avenue of trees.

When Andrew took me round the course on Sunday, the eighth hole—about 410 yards—was still flooded in front of the green owing to the high level of the lake, but it is perhaps the star turn of the circuit.

The tee is elevated about 50 feet above green level. On the right to catch a long drive is a forested bank, and on the left the waters of Prospect Lake. The drive must be placed to give a shot to the green which may entail a faded wood or long iron. Andy also has a back tee here which would increase the terror of this hole.

One par three hole is blind, but is such a little scenic gem of 160 yards that it would be a sin to change it. Another is about 80 yards to an elevated postage stamp green that will call for extreme accuracy.

One of the par four holes has an old barn as a hazard confronting the drive that is sliced or faded.

A carpenter by trade, Andrew has practically built this golf course himself and in his spare time. He has a couple of local teenagers helping him Saturdays on maintenance work. The big earth moving jobs, of course, were let out on contract.

Andrew and his wife Dorothy, whose home is just behind the ninth green, have a lovely view of Prospect Lake as does the whole course. They aim to make their little course, with a modern little clubhouse—built by Andy, of course—a haven for those golfers who look for peace and not too much crowding.

The course is easily spotted from the north end of Prospect Lake, and may be approached either from West Saanich Road or Burnside Road.

Victoria Golf Club's plan to have English pro Alexander M. Robertson as its successor to Laurie Carroll fell apart last week when Robertson cabled the club that for domestic reasons he had been forced to decline the offer which he had previously accepted.

The club is now attempting to make an arrangement with another professional, also from the Manchester, England area.

Another series of four lessons for junior golfers will be held under sponsorship of the Victoria District Golf Committee, with the various club pros as teachers.

All interested juniors who are members of BCGA clubs in the Victoria district should register immediately at their home club. Fee is $1 and closing date is March 18.

Inter-club junior matches are also planned, along with another Victoria-Vancouver series. Funds for these activities are provided by the B.C. Golf Association.

ENTRIES are now being taken for the Vancouver Island match play open, which starts March 29 at Royal Colwood, and with the field limited to 160 there is every indication there will have to be a handicap cutoff, so great is the interest. . . . Ron MacLeod and Laurie Carroll of Victoria Golf Club retained the city open buttons Sunday by beating the Uplands pair of Gord Fallow and Frank Scroggs on the Victoria course. . . . Moke Morgan and Clarence Mitchell of Gorge Vale beat challenging clubmates Roy Spence and Jack Brown for the senior buttons. Next challengers are Larry McCooey and Roy Johnston of Colwood. . . . Final monthly medal of the season will be played Sunday at Colwood with 51 entrants. MacLeod leads after two rounds with 139, followed by Norm Boden (143) and Carroll (144). . . . Bob Moss, 73-7-66, won the spring meeting handicap award at Uplands Sunday, followed by Bill Merleak, 75-8-67 and L. Greenwood, 80-12-68. Moss also had low gross, but the prize went to John Hadfield (75) after a tie. . . . best ball of 67 gave Gordon Jones and George Murphy the Clark Trophy match Sunday at Gorge Vale with a net 62. Vio Derran and Ken Campbell were second with 76-11-65. Jones had the best round of the day, a 71 and he and Murphy also had the low gross best ball score, but the prize went to Bill Wakeham and Al MacLeod, 69, by reversion.

Sound of Champions Smacks of Success

By JIM TAYLOR

To people who know badminton, the difference between club class and world class can often be measured in sound. At Victoria Racquets Club yesterday, you could hear the sound of champions.

The Japanese Thomas Cup team was holding its first workout in preparation for their zone final against the United States Friday and Saturday on these same courts. And when you watched, you knew you were seeing some of the best.

SHARP CRACK

There is a sound that tells you, a sharp, explosive crack that comes only when a bird is well and truly hit. Club players can strive for years and never get it, but when the Japanese players swung yesterday it was heard again and again—a sound like the snap of a wet towel on bare flesh.

Erlend Kops, probably the best of them all, had it in his two appearances here. It is the mark of the badminton elite, and it was even more impressive yesterday because the Japanese team is so youthful.

OLDEST AT 30

Playing coach Yoshiro Sato is the oldest at 30. Eiichi Nagai is 26, Yoshiro Komiya and Eiichi Sakai 24, Takeshi Miyayama 23, and Yoshinori Itagaki a mere 22.

But last weekend in Vancouver they met the best-conditioned, best-prepared Thomas Cup team Canada has offered in years, and slaughtered it.

"They beat us worst at what we considered the place that would win for us," said local official Bob Macmurchie. "They took us apart in the doubles. I don't know how they would be ranked internationally against the United States, but anyone who saw them play Canada would have to rank them favorites."

TIME OUT

Midway in the workout there was time out to talk to the press. The Japanese team can read English and understand it, and are making phenomenal progress in speaking it, but for the moment the questions and answers were relayed from manager Shochi Kawabata by Kelly Kurita of the Japanese Consulate in Vancouver.

No, the Japanese weren't particularly surprised at the ease (8-1) by which they demolished the Canadian team. This was not bragging, merely the honest answer to a question.

EVEN CHANCE

Yes, they figured they had a 50-50 chance against the U.S. team, although none of their players had ever played any member of the American entry. Their feeling was that since American scores against Canadians are much the same as the Japanese posted in Vancouver, the two zone finalists must be evenly matched.

Japan's national badminton association was formed in 1946, and now has 10,000 registered members in addition to the thousands who play casually.

NO CLUBS

There are no clubs as we know them here, only groups of people, usually employees of some industrial firm, who get together, form a group, then find some place to play. In the main, matches are played in school gymnasiums.

Despite their win in Vancouver, Kawabata said his team had some difficulty adjusting to different equipment, particularly a different type of shuttlecock which doesn't travel so far as the ones used by the Japanese. No, he could not say who on his team would play in what order. Draw will be made to-night, and since the American team arrives today there is no sense giving them any extra time to plan.

Credentials? Komiya, the top Japanese singles player (beaten by Wayne Macdonnell for Canada's only victory) last weekend, was quarter-finalist in the all-England tournament and semi finalist in the U.S. Open last year.

Miyayama was all-Japan singles champ in 1962. Nagai, playing captain, was an Asian Games team member in 1958 and 1962, and all the others have similarly impressive backgrounds. And to top it off, the Japanese recently beat Indo-nesia's current world champions in the Asian Games. Most of all, they have youth, and that could be the big factor in the five singles and four doubles matches this weekend. The Japanese team has an average age of just under 25, and the U.S. team averages 32.5 years.

U.S. SQUAD

Playing for the U.S. will be: JIM POOLE, 32, top-ranked in U.S. singles and first left-hander ever to win that title. Beat world champion Finn Kobbervig in 1958.

JOE ALSTON, 38, and WYNN ROGERS, 41, current U.S. doubles champions, a title they have held since 1951.

DON PAUP, 24, and MANUEL ARMENDARIZ, 30, second ranked in U.S. doubles. First Thomas Cup appearance for Paup, fourth for Armendariz.

MIKE HARTGROVE, 30, fifth ranked in U.S. singles, member of last two Thomas Cup teams.

Winner of this zone final goes on to Japan, where the winners of all zones play off for the right to challenge world champion Indonesia. Despite the language barrier, you got the feeling yesterday the Japanese plan to go home to that one as players, not spectators.

Late Rallies Win Contests Esquimalt Series All Even

Esquimalt and District Amateur Hockey League's two best-of-five semi-finals were forced to the full three games at the Sports Centre last night as Army and Esquimalt Pontiacs won on the strength of third-period rallies.

Army, trailing 3-0 after two periods, scored the game's last six goals for a 6-3 victory over University of Victoria Vikings.

Pontiacs, the league champions, scored the last four goals in a 6-4 win over Navy.

Both series will wind up Friday, with winners advancing to a best-of-five final.

Vikings, in one of their better efforts, appeared to have their semi-final well in hand after a first-period goal by Glen Vickers and two in the second by Glyn Harper and Jerry Cochetti. But everything came unglued in the third.

Rod Lafonde, George Eade and Les Desjardins scored in the first eight minutes to tie it up. Eade got the winner at 18:40.

Stu Kubb and Dave Stones added the others.

Second game provided 1,500 fans with more of a battle. Score was tied, 1-1, at the end of the first period. Navy made it 3-2 after two and scored in the first minute of the third period.

GOT MOVING

Then Pontiacs, led by Joe Iannarelli, finally got moving. Iannarelli scored at four minutes, made the play for a goal by John Makowski at 7:15 to tie it up, and scored the winner from Makowski at 13:40. Keith Lawrence got the last goal at 18:40.

Bob Fowler and Doug Couch did the rest of Esquimalt's scoring. Ron Cook scored twice and Ken Maxwell and Dave Cardinal once for Navy.

Speeding Liston Carrying Pistol

DENVER (AP)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston was arrested Tuesday night by a traffic officer who said Liston was driving 76 miles an hour in a 30-mile-an-hour zone.

Patrolman James Snider said, after stopping Liston's Cadillac he found in a search of Liston that he was carrying a seven-shot .22-calibre pistol with six cartridges and an empty shell.

Snider, alone when he stopped Liston's car, said he had to call another patrol car for help in handcuffing Liston "when he became belligerent." He was taken in handcuffs to police headquarters.

Snider said he charged Liston with reckless and careless driving, speeding, carrying a concealed weapon and driving without a valid Colorado operator's licence. Liston was booked at the jail but gained his immediate release by posting $300 bond.

Bouton Accepts Offer

RIDGEWOOD, N.J. (AP)—Jim Bouton, New York Yankees' holdout pitcher, said Tuesday he will accept the club's $18,000 offer and will fly to the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., camp today.

He had been warned he would be fined $100 a day for every day he was absent after midnight Wednesday night.

"I have no other choice," Bouton said at his home here. "I am naturally disappointed, but I feel there is no recourse."

Bouton, who won 21 games and lost seven for the Yankees last season, had demanded a 100 per cent raise over his $18,000, 1963 salary.

Ralph Houk, first offered him $15,000 and then $18,000, refusing to go over the latter figure.

Another Title to B.C.

REGINA (CP)—Ed Gee of Chilliwack, B.C., won the Canadian policemen's curling championship Tuesday.

Gee, making his fifth appearance in the championship, scored three on the 10th end to topple favored Wally Strauss of Yorkton, Sask., RCMP 5-4 in the final.

Gee, who curled behind third Bill Gilchrist, second Ken Watson and head Loren Wess, joined Lynn Dagg of Vancouver and Ina Hansen of Kimberley as Canadian champions from British Columbia.

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta Manitoba and Ontario remained undefeated Tuesday night at the end of the second draw of the Royal Canadian Legion national curling final.

Alberta defeated Nova Scotia 11-4, Ontario swamped Quebec 14-6, Manitoba edged New Brunswick 8-7, Prince Edward Island won, 10-3, and British Columbia took a 9-7 decision over Newfoundland in the second draw.

Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan won opening games in the third round-robin competition.

TORONTO (CP)—Seven rinks from across Canada will vie for the Canadian farmers' curling championship here this week.

It will be the climax of competitions, both local and regional, in which more than 6,000 rinks tried for a berth in the national finals.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

They have been catching steelhead in the Nanaimo River since December but our informants say the best time is yet to come . . . about the last week in March and the first week in April. Then follows a run of big spring salmon.

Victorians don't spend a great deal of time fishing the Nanaimo. They have a difficult time passing by the Cowichan during steelheading time, and if they do pass the Cowichan they seem to head right on through to Campbell River area.

But Vancouverites know the Nanaimo well and on a weekend you have to elbow the mainlanders out of the way to find a fishing spot.

They get off the ferry at Nanaimo and within 10 or 15 minutes can be fishing the river.

We took a look at the Nanaimo River Friday and found a number of steelheaders going and coming from the Bore Hole, but nobody had fish, although there were some reports of fish several miles up the river in the white water.

The Nanaimo can be approached from logging roads on the south bank or from the Nanaimo Lakes—Green Mountain road on the north. We took the north bank.

Cross the Nanaimo River bridge at Cassidy. You can start your fishing right below the bridge.

Turn left at the first turning, about 100 yards after the bridge, and keep left. Almost as soon as you get around the bend in the road you see trails and rough roads leading off towards the river. Partner Bud Dunnett told us they all lead to a fishing hole on the river.

We passed through a Boy Scout tree farm area for a short distance and just before the big gravel pit on the right, we turned left down a bumpy, but sound, road.

We drove down the road for a half a mile to a parking spot on the right, just before the road headed down a bumpy hill, which looked like trouble coming back up.

We parked and decided to walk the rest of the way. About 100 yards along, the road (or trail) forked. We kept right, but Dunnett said that had we taken the left fork we would have come to some high bluffs overlooking deep still pools with a high rock wall on either side of the river.

It is not easy climbing down the mossbank cliffs to the river 60 or 70 feet below, but you can get down to fish the pools, Dunnett said.

We walked another couple of hundred yards on the trail and came to the top of a hill overlooking just as lovely a river pool as we have seen. It is a steep incline at first on loose sand and gravel, then it slopes out to a moss-covered hill for 50 yards to the water.

There was a pool about 50 yards long and 25 yards wide, shallow on the north bank, gently sloping out to become very, very deep and still.

At the top and was a potholed narrow gorge through which the river emptied into the pool.

At the lower end there was a canyon and plenty of white water.

Dunnett explained the steelies fought their way up the rapids and then rested in the pool, along the wall at the south side.

Logs, high on the bank, indicated that river in flood rises 20 or 30 feet higher.

Back at the car Dunnett showed us a foot trail leading off to the left.

He explained the trail leads to a steep gorge between the hole we had just visited and the Bore Hole upstream. It is all fast water with rock wall on either side but a steep trail leads to the water and you can fish the back eddies, he explained. At one point you can't climb around the walk rock wall and you have to crawl through a small tunnel.

Back to the mainline Nanaimo Lakes road, turn left for a few hundred yards, then left along the power line for the Bore Hole, one of the favorites on the river.

You can see the river far below and to the left is the long and wide bore hole. There are two trails down and on one a ladder has been provided to climb down the wall.

Some say the best is from the south side which can be reached by logging road. Just above the bore hole is some white water where fish may be taken, and then comes the jiggling (white rapids) hole which has been banned to fishing.

Back to the mainline road, turn left to the railway trestle and see lovely pools below and above it. Carry on further and you find other roads leading to the river. We didn't go any further, but a few miles upstream is the fast water steelhead fishing where special techniques and 20- and 30-pound test line are used to haul the steelies from the turbulent water.

THE Arnold PALMER METHOD

YOUR PUTTING STYLE IS UP TO YOU

Putting styles vary — and very plenty!

As you can see in #1, I keep my knees and elbows in tight, so that I don't move my body or head during the stroke. I keep my head directly over the ball. Jack Nicklaus, on the other hand, positions his head well behind the ball.

Doug Sanders (see #2) uses a narrower stance than Nicklaus and employs a longer stroke than I do.

Whatever your style, though, remain as stationary as possible during the stroke and let the putter head connect the ball soundly and squarely.

Here's putting in a nutshell! To get this pamphlet, send 10¢ and a stamped, return envelope to Arnold Palmer, c/o this newspaper.

Lothead Cleared By Racing Board

VANCOUVER — A race horse owner Bill Lothead of New Westminster has been cleared by the California Horse Racing Board in connection with the doping of the horse, Vernon.

O.C. Soccer

LONDON (Reuters)—Results of soccer matches played Tuesday night:

ENGLISH LEAGUE
Barnsley 2, Leicester 1
Bristol City 2, Queens Park Rangers 1

Ruling after a hearing in Los Angeles stated Lothead was "completely cleared and exonerated of administering anything to the horse," but did levy a $250 fine for negligence in his duties as trainer.

"Regardless of the not of a third party," the report read, "there is a fine of $250 because the horse was unprotected while the groom was at breakfast and lunch."

Vernon won a six-furlong race at Golden Gate Fields Dec. 19, and tests later showed evidence of a drug.

Scottish Soccer Axiom

Prosperity Lies Over the Border

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—Scotland's three principal exports, as any schoolboy will tell you, are whisky, Highland cattle and soccer players.

Most of the whisky goes to North America or Europe. The cattle usually find their way to South America.

The soccer stars just move across the border to England, where they can earn big transfer fees for their clubs and bigger wages for themselves.

A newspaper survey showed that more than 300 Scots play for teams in the four divisions of the English League.

When a young Scottish soccer player begins to hit the headlines, the fans start asking how soon he will go to England. With a leading English team he can earn up to $100 ($300) a week with bonus money.

Few of the Scottish clubs can afford to pay that kind of money.

Record Transfer Fee

LONDON (AP)—Fred Pickering, centre-forward of the Blackburn Rovers soccer team, was sold Tuesday to Everton for $224,000, a record for a transfer between British teams. Pickering is rated one of the best centre-forwards in Britain.

Hardwood Hollywood

It was dramatic, Michigan's Bill Buntin (prostrate) fouled Purdue's Bob Parkhiser (25) in dying seconds of game and from his position on floor gave signal that he'd done the deed. Parkhiser went on to sink two free throws to give Purdue big college basketball upset, 81-78. —(AP Photofax)

Magistrate Referees Shouting Match

Doctor, Lawyer Have At It

Magistrate William Oulter had to referee a brief shouting match between Victoria lawyer Robert Price and Dr. E. L. McNiven at an impaired driving trial in city court yesterday.

The altercation started when Mr. Price, defence counsel for Michael A. Rees, 628 Monterey, questioned Dr. McNiven's ability to estimate the alcohol content of Rees' blood on the basis of physical observations.

Rees was charged after striking the rear of a car stopped for a stop sign at Richmond and Lansdowne at 2:10 p.m. Feb. 15.

He told police he had drunk a pint of straight rum at a wedding reception between 10 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.

Dr. McNiven was called in to administer a sobriety test. He asked Rees if he was ill and Rees said: "I've got TB. Do you know what that is? That's a tavern belly," he said, patting his stomach.

He gave his address as

"Behind the tweed curtain, Oak Bay."

"You are able to determine the quantity of alcohol in a person's blood stream without a chemical test?" asked Mr. Price, after Dr. McNiven had estimated Rees' blood-alcohol content at .16 per cent.

"Yes, I've done it hundreds of times," said Dr. McNiven. He said he had often had his estimates corroborated by a breathalyzer test.

He added he might be out slightly either way, but not enough to make any difference.

"Or you could be out by .32," said Mr. Price.

"Don't talk rubbish," snapped back the doctor.

Mr. Price then asked if Rees' face had been flushed the night of the accident.

"Yes," said Dr. McNiven.

"Is it flushed now?"

"I can't tell without touching it," said Dr. McNiven.

Rees has a ruddy complexion.

"If his face was flushed then it is flushed now," said Mr. Price.

"Not necessarily. Don't be stupid," answered the doctor.

Magistrate Oulter then warned the two against shouting at one another.

"It is most undignified for professional men like you to be shouting at each other in a court."

Both men apologized.

Rees was found guilty, was fined $300, and had his licence suspended.

Mayor Suggests:

Juvenile Home For Court

By IAN STREET

Use of the former juvenile detention home as temporary quarters for the Greater Victoria family and juvenile court was proposed to the intermunicipal committee yesterday.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said the property used as a juvenile detention home on Coalharbour Road until a few months ago emerged as "the most likely possibility" after a survey of rented accommodation for the court.

He said the reaction of court officials, so far, has been in favor of the proposed switch from cramped quarters now occupied by the court in the basement of the city health and welfare building on Cook Street. The property, placed on the market when the new juvenile detention home went into operation last fall, is jointly owned by the four municipalities.

Reaction to the mayor's proposal was generally favorable yesterday, and the intermunicipal committee decided to recommend that the four councils appoint representatives to a joint family and juvenile court committee.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said this would go a long way towards providing answers to some important questions that are bothering Esquimalt council.

"WE DON'T KNOW"

He waved an unsigned copy received by Esquimalt of a provincial cabinet order, designating the city as Paymaster for the Greater Victoria family and juvenile court, and said: "At present we don't know where we're going... we don't know what these costs are."

The intermunicipal committee voted to listen to what BCHIS spokesmen have to say about a proposal for formation of a hospital improvement district covering the entire capital region.

Reeve Allan Cox said he was "unilaterally opposed" to Oak Bay making any legal commitment to support capital expansion of hospital facilities in the area.

"There is great merit in trying to ensure that everyone pays his way in this matter of hospital expansion," Reeve Cox said. "But we must nevertheless beware of walking blindly into a long-term legal commitment."

SPCA PROPOSAL

The four councils will be asked to approve an intermunicipal committee recommendation for sharing of a $20,000 capital grant to the SPCA, Victoria branch, over a three-year period.

Technical advisors have reported that cost of extending the proposed survey of future Greater Victoria sewer needs to take in the northern section of the Saanich Peninsula and other adjacent unincorporated territories will be considerable.

It is estimated that $60,000 will be required for an aerial survey of the north end of the peninsula to determine contours of land and the cost of the survey to be conducted by consulting engineers will be boosted from $74,000 to some $102,000.

TRANSIT TALKS?

Mayor R. B. Wilson will informally approach the government to determine whether Premier Bennett is willing to meet with municipal leaders to discuss future operation of B.C. Hydro transit services.

The mayor will also contact civic officials on the lower mainland to ask whether they wish to participate in the proposed talks.

Four Face Dope Charges

Four men were arrested by police last night on charges of possession of narcotics.

The suspects were picked up and questioned by Constables Les Mothershead, Murray McArthur and Ed Hardy and Det. Lester Clarke of the city police force and Cpl. Reg Blackmore of the RCMP.

They are to appear in city magistrate's court today.

Alumni to Meet

Victoria branch of the University of Toronto alumni association will hold its annual meeting in the Art Gallery of Victoria at 3 p.m. Friday March 20.

Mystery Siren Wails

Oak Bay residents developed a slight twitch and started phoning the police station when a mysterious siren started booming out around 7 p.m. last night.

The weird sound which lasted about 20 minutes or more was never traced to its source.

SEVERAL SECTIONS

Phone calls came in from several sections of the district complaining of the din and making it difficult to pinpoint.

The first call came in from a residence on Topp, followed by several more calls from homes that were some distance away from the first complainant.

POLICE CHECK

Police checked all intersections where there were air raid sirens in the municipality but were unable to locate the source of the din.

At least one of the residents hearing the noise thought it might be a car horn that stuck, others were convinced it was a siren—but we may never know.

Centre Under Fire Again

Silver Threads Bristle

Owen Karn, chairman of the Silver Threads' service yesterday replied to a second batch of criticisms that the planned community centre for Centennial Square would be inadequate to meet the needs of Victoria's oldtimers.

Second group to criticize the plan—No. 1 Group did so a few weeks ago—is No. 3 Group. President-secretary Peter Davey said this week the new centre was inadequate because it would only accommodate 400 people.

NO NEED

But last night Mr. Karn said: "No centre could adequately house all Victoria's old age pensioners at one time. Nor would there ever be any need to do so."

"However, I think people are misled about the facilities the new centre will offer. In total, the whole building will accommodate more than 1,000 people at one time—not 400."

In a breakdown description of the new centre's facilities, Mr. Karn said it would have a large communal hall that would seat 400 people, a card room for 100, a reading room for 150, woodcraft room for 50, handicraft room for 150, a music and choir room for 50, a first-aid room, medical consulting room, offices and kitchens.

"But at no one time do I think all these facilities will be used at once," said Mr. Karn.

"And if groups want to form their own breakaway centres, as No. 1 Group has done in buying the Victoria Ballroom, let them do so. That will help to alleviate the problem of lack of facilities for the elderly."

Sooke Awaits Reply On Classroom Funds

Trustees of Sooke school district are still awaiting a reply from the department of education of their request to transfer referendum funds for the construction of classrooms.

Trustees allocated $90,000 for three activity rooms in the last referendum but now find that six classrooms are needed to avoid a shift system in September.

The board is planning another referendum this year and if permission is granted for the classrooms, then the activity rooms will be included in the new by-law.

Remaining $8,700

The remaining $8,700 expenditure proposed for six other key intersections was referred for consideration with the capital budget. Mr. Young said his program includes $28,000 to provide protection for emergency vehicles at 50 city intersections.

Also cut was $10,000 from the $25,000 estimate that would purchase a new $48,000 aerial rescue truck for the department.

The committee said if the order was placed for delivery early in 1965 the remaining $10,000 could be provided in next year's budget.

Re-location of Burnside fire hall became a remote possibility in the foreseeable future when the committee yesterday approved $3,800 for renovation and repairs to the existing hall.

The committee approved a $5,625 item for establishment of the position of inspection and training officer in the fire department.

Social welfare, metro board of health, and general government estimates were passed with minor additions and cuts.

In sundry estimates the committee rejected a request for a $2,500 grant to Better Business Bureau and cut a proposed $18,000 grant to B.C. Maritime Museum by $8,000.

James Bay

Would You Like To Take Walk?

The high-rise apartment isn't a thing of beauty to every eye and a group of Victoria citizens, interested in community planning, has organized a walk through James Bay for Saturday to point out that there are some very pleasant streets with old buildings in that area.

The walk is sponsored by the Capital Region branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada and it will be followed by a luncheon then talks on "James Bay Past" by Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, and "James Bay Present" by Anthony Roberts, director of the Regional Planning Board.

CIVIC LEADERS

Civil leaders from the Lower Island have been invited to take the walk, which is open to the public. Walkers will travel in groups of ten, each with a professional planner as guide and to point out features of the area.

Premier Bennett, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, Victoria's MLAs, and chairman of the Capital Improvement District Commission J. Everett Brown have been invited to the luncheon.

TWO, THREE MILES

The walk starts at 9:30 from the Beacon Hill Park lot and will cover two or three miles ending in time for lunch at the Tally-Ho Travelodge at 12:30 p.m. and the talks which start at 2 p.m.

Luncheon tickets, at $1.50 each, are available from the Tally-Ho dining room; Ker & Stephenson Ltd., Broughton; Harbour Machine Shop, Erie; G. Barr, 385-2850 (evenings); F. Crocker, 383-0654 (evenings); Mrs. F. Monckton, 385-4371, and Mrs. B. Packford, 382-0780.

City Cypriot Saddened

Only One Side of Story Is Heard—the Turkish

By KEN JOHNSON

Last night a sad-eyed, grey-haired man sat quietly at his home at 601 Burnside East—but his heart was thousands of miles away on the trouble-torn island of Cyprus.

He was 68-year-old Stanley Morisse. For many years Mr. Morisse has been well known in Victoria as a tailor. But in actual fact, the quiet-spoken man was born a Greek-Cypriot.

"I worried because I have many relatives in Cyprus," Mr. Morisse said. "But what has disturbed me most over the past few weeks have been the newspaper reports I have read."

"Every report I have read about Cyprus in Canadian and American newspapers has given only one side of the story—the Turkish side," said Mr. Morisse. There was no bitterness in his voice as he spoke.

"I would like to clear up some of the misleading things which have been said. Before all this trouble Turks and Greeks lived happily side by side. There was no friction between them."

"But over the past few years, trouble-making Turks known as bashibozuks, or hoodlums, have gone to Cyprus from the mainland and have begun causing unrest. Their willingness to cause trouble has been taken advantage of by political leaders—and fighting has begun."

"What do people expect the Greeks to do? Sit back and let themselves be massacred?"

"And you know, when newspapers show these photographs of murdered Turkish children, you cannot be sure they are Turkish. There is hardly any difference between the appearance of a Turk and a Greek Cypriot."

"I am getting old and I'm about to retire soon. Maybe I'll go to Cyprus to see my relatives next summer when I do retire. The last time I heard from them, they said they were all right. But it is not much comfort when each day we hear new reports of violence."

"But I'd just like people here to know that the Greeks and Turks on the island are not really against each other. It is those outsiders who cause the trouble."

"Some of my best friends here in Victoria are Turks. It is very sad."

Tears came to Mr. Morisse's eyes as he talked. "Forgive me for being so moved," he said.

Family Gathering for Triple Christening

Five generations are represented in this picture taken following the christenings. At left, Mrs. G. W. Monkhouse, holding baby daughter Haria; Mrs. J. W. Hancock, baby's grandmother; Mrs. Paul LeLoup, great-grandmother, and 90-year-old Mr. L.

B. Studdert-Kennedy, the baby's great-great-grandfather. Mrs. LeLoup and Mr. Studdert-Kennedy came from South Burnaby for the ceremony, which was followed by afternoon tea for relatives and friends at the Ker Avenue home of Mrs. Lucy Hancock.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Last September the daughter of a close friend was married. I went to considerable trouble and expense to select a beautiful wedding gift and felt sure the girl would be delighted.

Last week it occurred to me that I had received no word of acknowledgement from the bride. I checked my date book and noted the gift had been purchased four months ago to the day. The bride lives in this city so there is no chance that the gift was lost in the mails. It occurred to me that perhaps the gift might have been delivered to the wrong address. So I phoned the bride to inquire.

She was noticeably flustered and said, "I'm a little behind in my thank you notes. The gift was lovely. I'll write you a note when I get around to it."

Ten minutes later her mother phoned me—enraged. She said I had insulted her daughter and that the poor girl was in a stage of nervous collapse.

Did I do the wrong thing by calling her?—NOT SURE

Dear Not Sure: Four months is plenty long to wait for a thank you note. Don't allow that ill-mannered young woman to transfer her guilt to you.

Strange that the most foolish of clods—those who have no regard for the feelings of others—are the most easily hurt.

Dear Ann Landers: My boy friend and I have been going together for 41 years. I had my first date with Atherton after I graduated from Vassar in the class of 1923. He was in the Yale class of 1921.

My parents have never allowed us to go anywhere unchaperoned because they were afraid we might get into trouble. Father passed away in 1954 and it's awfully hard on mother to go everywhere with us, especially skiing. She fell last winter on a ski slope at Sun Valley and her hip never did mend just right.

Don't you feel that now, since I am 63 years old, and past the child-bearing age, that Atherton and I should be allowed to date without a chaperone? Please rush your advice, Ann. We are desperate. —IMPATIENT LOVERS

Dear Lovers: Now that you are past the child-bearing age why don't you do your homework and stop bothering me with phony letters?

If you kids knew how much alike your group—constructed masterpieces were, you'd be thoroughly embarrassed.

Dear Ann Landers: What are the chances for a successful marriage in this case? The bride to be (I'll call her Mae) is 19. She has given the ring back to her fiancé four times since August. Whenever they have an argument, she throws the ring in his face. By the time he gets home his phone is ringing. She is sorry and wants him to bring the ring right back.

The last time she pulled this he refused to patch things up. He took out another girl. Mae was waiting on his porch when he got home at 12:30 a.m. He said he was through for good so she went on a hunger strike and didn't eat for three days. Her mother called and insisted the fellow "save her life."

They are back together again and the wedding is set for April. As the boy's mother I'd like your opinion. —J. D.

Dear J.D.: That one of yours should quit when he is ahead. A marriage based on emotional blackmail cannot succeed.

I predict he'll be getting the ring back at some point between now and April. If he's smart he'll return it to the jeweler and get whatever he can for it.

Mammoth Party Friday

The Uplands Golf Club will be scene of a mammoth party Friday evening when the Oak Bay Liberal Association holds its annual spring party.

Dr. H. R. Turner heads the planning committee which met recently to finalize arrangements. Other members are Mrs. H. C. Johnston, Mrs. P. A. Gibbs, Mrs. K. T. Seaborne, Mrs. G. F. Kenny, Mrs. H. B. McClung, Frank Waring and Noel Paget.

The gala evening will include a reception, card party and dance, beginning at 8:30 p.m., and continuing until 12:30 a.m. It's planned to honor the five Liberal members of the Legislature. Mike Turyk's orchestra will play for dancing.

Receiving guests will be president, R. B. Hutchinson and Mrs. Hutchinson. Many Liberals from Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich are expected to join their Oak Bay counterparts for the annual affair.

Victorian Scares His Cuban Jailer

"It's funny the things that amuse one in jail," mused Dr. E. H. Richardson, scientist of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory who spent four days in jail on a recent visit to Cuba.

He was talking to the women of the Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel, and he illustrated parts of his talks with slides.

Dr. Richardson was simply in Cuba as an interested tourist, but since he was observed taking many pictures in many places, the Cubans took the precaution of jailing him while investigating his activities.

BEST SPIES

"I probably did look very suspicious," reasoned the scientist. "After all, not many people go to Cuba as 'tourists' these days, and Canadian passports are usually held by the best spies."

He was placed in a 6x9-foot cell. "It was quite a healthy life," said the ex-prisoner. "To pass the time I practised the PCAF 5BX plan by doing lots of pushups and I was not given any cigarettes so it was good for me in that way."

His cell door had bars on the inside, and a small panel on the outside so no one could see out unless the jailer opened the panel. Dr. Richardson found his best amusement, trying to anticipate the jailer's arrival.

When he could achieve it, he would have his face right up at the bars when the panel was opened. "It gave them quite a turn a few times," he remarked with satisfaction.

He was well treated and found the food plentiful.

However, the main part of Dr. Richardson's time in Cuba was not spent under lock and key.

He saw a good deal of life in Cuba and found it to be not too bad.

Restaurants and coffee bars had little to offer, and clothing stores were poorly stocked, but he had many slides to show the slum clearances, the new schools and co-operative housing going up.

Many people were not over-enthusiastic about Castro, but they preferred him to the former regime. Color bars have been removed, and many are attending school who did not have the opportunity before.

Watchful Willie

LEEDS, England (CP) — Watchful Willie, a wooden figure eight inches high, is being introduced by police in the West Riding of Yorkshire to teach children safety drill.

A locking device prevents the figure from being taken across the street until it has been put through the correct curb drills—look right, left and then right again.

Challenge to Women Tremendous Today

The 59th annual meeting of the British Columbia Diocesan Board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church of Canada opened yesterday morning in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall and continues through tomorrow afternoon.

Prior to the registration and opening of the morning session the Most Rev. H. E. Sexton, Lord Archbishop of British Columbia, was celebrant at Communion in the Cathedral. Among the 350 delegates and guests attending the service was Mrs. George R. Pearce, a patroness of the Diocesan Board.

Mrs. F. A. Goodwin in her president's report, told the delegates that the scope of the WA's work embraces the whole church, whether it be at home, across Canada or overseas.

"The challenge to the women of the church today is tremendous," she said. "Church vocations vary from Sunday school teaching to choir work; youth leadership from the babies to the AYPA's in the parishes, diocesan and Canada-wide."

She urged her audience to march forward and not to be ashamed of saying they belong in the church army.

"Let us challenge the clergy saying, here we are, women of the church, what do you want us to do to further the interest in the whole church?"

Mrs. Goodwin reminded the meeting that the theme of the annual meeting is "Mutual Responsibility."

She pointed out that in the spring of 1885 in Ottawa, seven women had the same concern for the church when they sought permission from the bishops of the Canadian Church to organize the woman's auxiliary.

Welcome addresses were given by Dean Brian Whitlow and Mrs. J. D. Vickers, an honorary member of the board. Mrs. Donald Maclean, Whaletown, replied.

Dorcas secretary, Mrs. J. A. Andrews, reported that during the past year a total of $1,471 was spent for clothing sent to St. Michael's School, Alert Bay, for 160 children. An additional sum of $509 went towards Christmas cheer for the children.

Hospital showers provided articles sent to St. Mary's Hospital, Pender Harbor; Columbia Coast Mission; the clinic at Whaletown; Caroline Macklem Home, and the Arctic Missions at Fort McPherson and Cambridge Bay.

Recording secretary's report, given by Mrs. H. McDonald, showed a total of 185 branches in the diocese with 5,364 members.

Reports were also given by Mrs. N. W. Life, Mrs. F. C. Vaughan-Birch, Mrs. G. V. Jarvis and Mrs. T. C. Griffiths.

Has Everything

PILSEY, England (CP) — Jacqueline Holmes, a 14-year-old school girl described as the richest teen-ager in this Derbyshire village, was £1,000 in 'the British government bond lottery. She said she wouldn't know what to do with the money "because I already have everything."

HAIRSTYLING HIGHLIGHTS

Around the World of Beauty with BILL KRAFT

Beauty is the touch of a hand. It is the act of walking. It is the infection heard in a greeting or farewell. It is that moment of wonder when gazing upon the features of one's love. All these make those MANY SPLENDORED MOMENTS something you all want, need and are entitled to. They come most often in women of fashion. The MOILER SCHOOL OF HAIRDRESSING salutes the students and staff of the JUBILEE HOSPITAL.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Freigang pictured with their children in their Christie Point Townhouse Apartment.

Says Mr. Freigang: "We like the roominess of our apartment, and the lovely playground which is right at our back door."

Christie Point Apartments, a development of Consolidated Building Corporation, are located on Craigflower Road, off Highway 1A just past Craigflower Bridge. The Rental Office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the phone is EV 5-06/4. You too, can rent an apartment at Christie Point for as little as $110.00 a month.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

JAVEX-clean diapers are safer

JAVEX purifies and softens diapers to guard against painful diaper rash

Washing and rinsing baby's diapers is not always enough. They may still contain harmful germs, the fabric may be too harsh for baby's tender skin. "Javex" will lift and dissolve non-hygienic residue to give an extra margin of protection and whiteness. Use "Javex" for diapers a mother can trust.

The fibres of this diaper are dull-looking, stiff and irritating to baby's tender skin. Cause is Residue containing harmful bacteria the eye alone can't detect.

"Javex" has made the fibres of this diaper hygienically clean. Rough residue has been dissolved from the fabric, diaper now safer and more gentle for your baby. Notice how white the fabric is thanks to "Javex".

Could Go to Jail Bette Davis Told

MERRILL

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Gary Merrill's right to see his 12-year-old adopted son has been upheld by a judge who warned actress Bette Davis she could be sent to jail if she interfered.

"There has to be an end to this," said Superior Court Judge Edward Brand, who gave both Merrill and Miss Davis stern lectures on the responsibilities of parents. It was the fifth time the actress had attempted to end the visitation rights.

"This is a fine boy with sound training," Brand said of Michael Merrill. "Despite the handicap of coming from a broken home he will become a sound, useful citizen."

Then, turning to Miss Davis, he said:

"But I must caution you, Mrs. Merrill, if you have any criticism to make of your husband's conduct, it must be made to your lawyer."

JAIL SENTENCE

"You do not have the right to interfere with any orders of this court, with meaning as you may be. Such a course of conduct may lead to a jail sentence for contempt, and I caution you not to place yourself in that position."

Then he turned to Merrill, 47, whom Miss Davis accused of drinking in front of the boy, and cautioned him against courting because of the publicity surrounding his movements.

GETTING DRUNK

"If you cause him (Michael) embarrassment, you have hurt him," Brand said. "There is nothing wrong in drinking in the presence of children. There is something wrong with getting drunk."

Merrill, who told Brand he had returned great distances, including from New York and Puerto Rico, to see his son, was allowed to resume the twice-monthly weekend visits this coming weekend.

Love Thy Neighbor

LUTON, England (UPI) — Publisher-haven Roy Thomson told a meeting here Tuesday: "I buy the Daily Express every morning because it sparkles. It is a very interesting and provocative newspaper." He owns the Sunday Times.

River and Street

Baron Thomson of Fleet Newest Lord of Press

LONDON (CP) — Roy Thomson, 69, will be known as Baron Thomson of Fleet, of Northbridge in the City of Edinburgh.

That's the full baronial dignity of Britain's newest press lord, as published Tuesday in the London Gazette.

Thomson would have preferred Baron Thomson of Toronto, or of Ontario, but the Canadian government opposed both those titles.

The word Fleet comes from the river which formerly flowed near Thomson's office on Grays Inn Road, and from Fleet Street, London's "news-paper row."

Northbridge is the address of The Scotman newspaper of Edinburgh, the bridgehead for Thomson's successful invasion of British publishing more than 10 years ago.

Liturgy Council Named by Pope

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope Paul VI has appointed 42 members to a council to carry out reforms of Roman Catholic Church liturgy. They include 10 cardinals.

Names in the News

Grandma Hangs On

SAN FRANCISCO — Police say the fact grandmother Vera Warner, 89, hung on in a high-speed chase solved the deaths of sisters Nora Eastman and Marie Mindesall, both about 80. They said a hit-and-run driver killed the women, then was chased through Golden Gate Park by Mrs. Warner until a police car smashed his vehicle. Ronald Lambert, 32, was booked on suspicion of manslaughter, hit-run driving, drunk driving and running a stop sign.

TRENTON, N.J. — Charles (The Big) Workman, 54, walked out of New Jersey state prison after 23 years imprisonment for the 1935 gangland execution of Dutch Schultz, beer baron during the prohibition era. He and his wife were driven away immediately.

NASHVILLE — Ralph De Laval, 33, of Toronto, who posed as a priest, was jailed for a year and a day for stealing cowboy boots, a watch and a wallet from Grand Ole Opry stars, including Hank Snow.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court threw out a $300,000 libel judgment given Montgomery, Ala., police commissioner L. B. Sullivan against the New York Times and four Negro ministers.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Michael Farley, 16, white, was jailed seven months for second-degree manslaughter in the pistol slaying of Virgil Ware, 13, Negro, shortly after a church bombing last Sept. 15 killed four Negro girls.

BONN — Gen. Paul von Lettow-Vorbeck, 83, legendary undefeated leader of German

Six School Plays

Festival Hits Full Stride

The 24th Victoria schools drama festival hit its full stride yesterday with six plays, at George Jay and Belmont schools.

Two afternoon items at George Jay were by Brentwood elementary and the first of these, The Wishing Stream, came in for considerable commendation by adjudicator Jack McCreath.

DELIGHTFUL JOB — It was an "enchanting" production, he said, and "everyone did a delightful job." Marc Deubrie as the property man received special praise.

David Buffam as Sing Hi was also praised as were Patzy Doran as the small sister and Sharon Fast as the small brother.

GOOD PERFORMANCES

George Jay's production of The King's Cream Puffs, said the adjudicator, provided "some very good performances." At the king, David McGregor displayed a potential "far beyond his years."

The queen (Maria Pondzielnik) was queenly all right but needed more voice. Director Miss Sally Timmis was congratulated on a job which displayed "nice comic sense."

NOT STRONG PLAY

Brentwood's The Little Red Hen was not a strong play in the opinion of Mr. McCreath. The sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fox were quite good. Mrs. Fox (Wendy Beaumont) was suitably down-trodden and bitter.

The evening program at Belmont High School was beset by audience restlessness.

Langford Elementary School opened the program with an intended swashbuckler called Stand and Deliver. The script suggests lots of color and action. "However," noted Mr. McCreath, "the play as presented lacked uniformity and the voices were often hard to hear." Gail Turner as Milady DeLacorre tended to overplay her part.

Next came The Pen of My Aunt, presented by Belmont.

OUTSTANDING PART — Margaret Adams was outstanding for a lively and expressive characterization of Simone. Nevertheless, the cast in general seldom achieved any depth of character.

In St. Michael's School's The Contented Wife, Peter Nallon as the wife did an excellent piece of work.

GOOD CHOICE

"This was a good choice of play," said Mr. McCreath, "simple and naturalistic. Also the setting was both imaginative and simple."

Macaulay, Colquhoun and Mount Newton schools perform today in Colquhoun at 2 p.m. In Oak Bay Senior High at 8 p.m., the host school does two plays and St. Louis College one.

THE SECRET CHOQUETTE — "A satirist of the highest order," said the Miami Herald.

Dick and Liz Seeking Marriage in Ontario

TORONTO (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton have applied for permission to be married in Ontario, but Premier Robarts has indicated it is extremely unlikely their application will be approved.

Robarts commented on the Burton-Taylor situation yesterday following a cabinet meeting, at which the entangled affairs of the famous couple had obviously been discussed.

NECESSARY PROCEDURE

Robarts confirmed that a Toronto lawyer, representing the couple, had applied directly to provincial secretary John Yar-emko for a marriage licence. This procedure is necessary for divorced persons from outside Canada wishing to marry in the province.

The premier said the provincial secretary does have the right to grant special permits if the circumstances warrant it, but he made a point of noting that "our laws are extremely still and complex."

Many things were involved in situations of this nature, he said, including whether the parties were originally married under Ontario's interpretation of the law.

Robarts said there was a "whole host" of these cases in Ontario and it was extremely difficult to determine the facts involving people from other countries.

He emphasized that the Burton-Taylor case is "exactly the same as any other one" as far as the province is concerned.

UBC Cuts Grant, Boosts Fees

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of B.C. is cutting its $100,000 yearly grant to the extension department in half and raising fees for part-time students, it was learned Tuesday.

"The department will concentrate more on adult education programs for professional people, to conform with the university's resources and its changing academic goals," said UBC president John Mardonald.

He said that because fees for regular students have increased the extension fees must follow suit.

Dentists' Leader

Dental War Denied

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of the B.C. Dental Association Tuesday refuted a statement by Health Minister Martin that dentists and dental mechanics are at war.

Dr. Wes Munroe said his group was already "co-operating with the dental mechanics to the extent that the law requires."

"We're not fighting with anybody," he said.

CHANGED RULES

Dr. Munroe said the association recently changed its regulations to permit dentists to sign certificates of oral health for patients who want plates made by mechanics, a practice which he said was "dubious" under previous regulations.

Patients of dental mechanics under the law must have a certificate of oral hygiene from a dentist before the mechanics, licensed under the Dental Technicians' Act, can make dentures for them.

LOWER RATES

Dr. Munroe also denied mechanics provide plates at markedly lower rates than dentists. He said the average charge by a dentist for fitting and providing dentures is $137 and some charge as little as $100. He said dental mechanics' rates run from $85 to $125.

Mr. Martin said he is determined to get the two groups to co-operate and he would introduce "stringent regulations" if necessary.

U.K. Smokers Puff Up A Record

LONDON (AP) — Britons smoked in record numbers in 1963 despite repeated warnings that the habit may induce lung cancer.

The Commonwealth Economic Committee said Tuesday tobacco sales totalled $928,000,000 during the first nine months of last year compared with $926,000,000 during the corresponding period of 1962. The committee estimated that during all of 1963 smokers laid out a total of $1,285,000,000, the bulk of it on cigarettes.

Cancer Policy On Sale

TORONTO (CP) — Cancer insurance now is available in Ontario—for both smokers and non-smokers.

British Pacific Life Insurance Co., says the number of cigarettes smoked determines the terms of payment. But the payments are the same for both non-smokers and the 20 cigarette-a-day man.

The difference is that a non-smoker pays a quarterly premium, a half-a-pack-a-day man pays semi-annually and a pack-a-day man annually.

Old Winter Lashes Out

TORONTO (UPI) — Winter proved Tuesday it can still pack a wallop as it sent a 50-mile-an-hour March blizzard roaring through southwestern Ontario. Among many accidents was the crash of a light plane—but no one was hurt.

Some 700 housewives and businesswomen in 21 communities across Canada voluntarily give 120,000 hours of their time annually by serving in the Canadian Red Cross Corps.

Winner Lodge

New Hampshire Reaches 10,000 Miles for Favorite

Write-Ins Write Off Rocky, Barry

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Absentee Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge blanketed three major contenders with a flood of write-in votes to win a stunning upset victory Tuesday night in New Hampshire's Republican presidential primary.

Lodge, 61, the Johnson administration's ambassador, 18,000 miles away in South Viet Nam, rolled up about 32 per cent of the votes and seemed likely to gather under the tent of his unannounced candidacy the state's 14 convention nominating votes.

Senator Barry Goldwater

Rep., Ariz.) and New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, who campaigned intensively in the state for weeks, battled it out for second place, with Goldwater holding the advantage. Their names were on the ballot.

In fourth place was Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 Republican presidential nominee, who, like

Lodge, was the beneficiary of a write-in campaign.

In the Democratic primary, President Johnson got a substantial write-in count, topping that of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy for president and vice-president.

In Washington the Democratic national chairman, John

M. Bailey, said the Kennedy vote reflected "the great esteem which the Democrats of New Hampshire would hold for him and held for his martyred brother."

The Republican tally from 207 of 302 precincts: Lodge 19,994; Goldwater 14,614; Rockefeller 17,180; Nixon 10,694.

Lodge supporters led in all 14 contests for delegate posts.

Rockefeller, calling Lodge a New England favorite, challenged the ambassador to return to join in active pursuit of the nomination. He said that statutes governing the state department would require Lodge

Lodge Ponders

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Tuesday he will "very carefully consider" his endorsement by the voters.

George Cabot Lodge said he received the statement from the ambassador in a telephone call to Saigon. The son said he told his father before the election that the public opinion polls "look pretty good."

Three-River Policy Next Year?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The B.C. government's vast two-river power policy could become a three-river policy next year with the addition of the Fraser to the Peace and Columbia.

Shouting Match

Banking Bill Passes

B.C.'s revolutionary banking bill sparked its third legislative shouting match yesterday as Liberals lost a last-ditch stand to block it.

Chief antagonists again were Premier Bennett and Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane.

FINAL READING

The bill, which enables the government to become a part owner in the proposed Bank of British Columbia, got third and final reading. It needs only the formality of being signed by the lieutenant-governor before it becomes law.

Mr. Macfarlane spearheaded Liberal opposition to the bill yesterday when he accused the premier of deliberately withholding names of prospective bank directors and the amount the bank's authorized capitalization.

PHONY REPLIES

He said that when he asked questions of the premier he just got "phony answers."

The legislature was being asked to sign a blank cheque on the provincial treasury, he charged.

"This is a dark day in the legislative history of B.C.," he said.

Premier Bennett lashed back. "This is a dark day for the Liberal Party of B.C.," he shouted.

AGAINST B.C.

"You are against B.C. You are for the eastern interests," he continued angrily.

He said that during the "financial crisis" controversy of two years ago Mr. Macfarlane had done "untold harm to the people of this province."

"You are an enemy of the people of this province," he cried.

Strike-Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The shipyard strike will delay the inauguration of the Comox-Powell River ferry run beyond this year's tourist season, Highway Minister Gagliardi said Tuesday.

The government awarded a $484,177 contract to Victoria Machinery Depot in December for the 25-car 200-passenger ferry for the run. It was to be ready this summer.

This possibility emerged yesterday with the tabling of the final Fraser River Board report in Victoria and Ottawa.

B.C. Lands Minister Ray Williston said it is possible the first phase of the $388,000,000 Fraser River flood control and power program might get started in 1965 if satisfactory cost-sharing agreements can be worked out with Ottawa.

POWER, KEY FACTOR

The Fraser project is designed primarily to curb flood damage on the lower river which could cost $75,000,000 a year. But economic feasibility of the program rests on development of about 1,300,000 horsepower of electrical energy at dams in central and northern B.C.

Mr. Williston said the project could be completed before 1980.

LIKE TIME BOMB

The interval between the present and the stage at which substantial control of the Fraser is achieved is "like sitting on a time bomb."

Snowpack in the Fraser watershed this winter could spark a flood of 1948 dimensions, he warned. All that is needed to touch it off is a late spring

Royal birth announcement, signed by physicians

B.C. Celebrates Sunday

Next Sunday has been proclaimed as a "day of rejoicing and a day of prayer to almighty God" in B.C. in recognition of the birth Tuesday of a third son to the Queen and Prince Philip. (See story on Page 5.)

The proclamation was issued by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black on behalf of Lieutenant-Governor George Peakes.

The provincial legislature passed a resolution asking the lieutenant-governor to forward to the royal couple the "nobles' great joy at the birth of your son."

The resolution was moved by Premier Bennett and seconded for the Opposition by Arthur Turner (NDP—Vancouver East).

'All Canadians Rejoice'

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier Tuesday sent the following telegram to the Queen:

"With my humble duty I wish to express to Your Majesty on behalf of your Canadian people our great joy at the birth of a son. With Your Majesty and His Royal Highness we give thanks to God for this precious gift and pray that He may grant the little prince a long and happy life."

Prime Minister Pearson sent the following message:

"All Canadians will rejoice at the glad news of the birth of a son. May I on behalf of the government extend to Her Majesty and Prince Philip loyal and hearty congratulations and all good wishes."

Plea for Retarded

Tisdalle Stills Legislature

A man who often empties the B.C. Legislature last night held it spellbound.

Sanrich MLA John Tisdalle took just six minutes to ram through the salary vote which Health Minister Martin has sought since last Thursday.

He talked of Woodlands School for retarded children as if he were a parent of one of its patients—which he is.

"We've boys and girls storey after storey."

"It is nothing more than a housing situation to put them out of sight."

Tisdalle

When a choleric Health Minister Martin tried to interrupt, Mr. Tisdalle talked him down.

"This is my own opinion," he said. "Nobody is going to shut me up."

The Sanrich MLA asked the house to disregard his personal implication with Woodlands.

"I feel incensed," he said.

"I know tonight I can go to parents and find they are suffering because they cannot get accommodation for their children."

"All we need to do is vote the supply and get on with the job."

Mr. Martin left the house at one point during Mr. Tisdalle's speech.

When he returned he sat with head bowed.

Victoria University's Lansdowne facilities were being put on the auction block to the highest bidder when they were urgently needed as a local facility for the retarded, Mr. Tisdalle said.

Retarded children shouldn't be taken away from their own communities.

"Bring them back into the community where the people know them and there is human kindness," he pleaded.

There had been too many emotional words on the subject of care for the retarded and not enough action, he told the hushed legislature.

Mr. Tisdalle was surrounded by a government clique which earlier had been pounding gleefully on desks as Mr. Martin offered shouted rebuttals to opposition attacks.

When he was finished a half-dozen government members pounded their approval.

The pole of government critic in a strange one for the Sanrich member. Usually he is one of its most ardent admirers.

Eastern U.S.

STORM HACKS LETHAL PATH

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States Red Cross rushed disaster workers to Cincinnati and Louisville Tuesday night as floods, torrential rains, snow and destructive winds wrought havoc in the eastern half of the U.S.

The swirling floodwaters and vicious March elements left a trail of at least 15 dead in the Midwest and east and drove thousands from their homes. Damage was in the millions.

SPILLED BANKS

Rivers and streams fed by the drenching rainfall spilled over their banks in western Pennsylvania and created widespread flooding.

An Ohio River flood, threatening to become the fourth worst in the valley's history, forced the evacuation of thousands from their homes in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

Robert C. Edson, national director of disaster services for the Red Cross, said a survey showed 23 counties in Kentucky, 16 in Ohio, 15 in Pennsylvania and six in Indiana were affected by the floods. At least four persons died in the floodwaters.

2,000 PERSONS

Edson said the Red Cross housed 2,000 persons Monday night and looked for substantially more Tuesday night.

Red Cross shelters were established in Athens, Ohio; Cincinnati; Louisville, Ky.; Lock Haven, Pa., and Carnegie, Pa.

Pittsburgh was placed on the alert to brace itself for its highest water since the rains from hurricane Hazel pushed the Ohio River up to 32.4 feet in 1954.

The Ohio and the Allegheny rivers rose rapidly and the Monongahela was running high.

South Ontario Snow-Snarled

TORONTO (CP) — A sudden snowstorm, driven by winds up to 65 miles an hour, slammed across southern Ontario Tuesday, causing chaos on city streets and highways.

More than six inches of snow fell in most areas. Nine inches blanketed the Toronto and Hamilton regions along Lake Ontario.

The storm swept in from the United States and engulfed the southern part of the province from Windsor to the Quebec border.

The nine-inch fall in Metropolitan Toronto created one of the worst traffic tieups this winter. Hundreds of cars were abandoned in bumper-to-bumper rush-hour city traffic. Others moved at a snail's pace along slippery roads.

Thousands of suburban commuters were hours late getting home from downtown Toronto as buses and streetcars ran behind schedule. Others spent the night in the city.

East Germany

Unarmed U.S. Plane Downed by Reds

WIESBADEN (AP) — A U.S. reconnaissance bomber disappeared Tuesday and the United States accused the Russians of shooting down the RB-66B over Communist East Germany.

A U.S. defence department spokesman said the plane was unarmed and that its three crew members parachuted after the shooting, which apparently occurred near one of the Berlin air corridors. Their fate was not known here.

ATTACK DIVE

A civilian pilot said he saw what looked like an attack dive by a Soviet-made MIG-17. He said he saw a flash as if the jet had fired rockets but was not able to see the target.

In Washington, the state department protested to the Soviet Union over the "preposterous action by the Soviet military forces in shooting down" the plane, but expressed regrets that the plane had "inadvertently" strayed into Communist East Germany.

CREW, WRECKAGE

The department asked the Russians to co-operate in returning the crew members and the wreckage of the plane.

The air force said the plane was last spotted near the central Berlin air corridor, one of the lanes reserved for allied planes flying over Communist territory between Berlin and West Germany.

ROUTINE MISSION

The twin jet Douglas RB-66B was on a routine training mission from Toul - Roesieres, France, and the crew had been briefed to fly a practice mission over West Germany, the announcement said.

The air force said an unidentified aircraft entered an air defence identification zone at 2:45 p.m.

Gloucester Eyes Candidate

GLoucester, England (UPI) — Hypnotist Henry Blythe said Tuesday he plans to win a seat on the Gloucester city council by hypnotizing the voters.

Blythe said he would perform mass hypnosis on the electorate by covering the sides of his election truck with pictures of his face.

A spokesman for the Labor party, which controls the city council, said "We are not taking Mr. Blythe very seriously."

This One's Anti-Leftist

GLoucester, England (UPI) — A man hobbled into the police station here, leaned on the counter and said: "I'm done for. I want to give myself up. I stole a pair of shoes from a shop in Oxford." Police found he was wearing a pair of new shoes—both for the right foot. The distance between Gloucester and Oxford is 48 miles.

Accountant Dies at 75 At Duncan

DUNCAN — Well-known Duncan accountant, James Hastings, 75, died recently at the residence, 763 Marchmont Road, here.

Born in Oxford, England, he was the only son of the late James Hastings, mayor of Oxford for many years.

He came to Canada at the age of 15, later moving to California where he sold real estate before coming to Vancouver to join the firm of Kelly, Douglas Co. until the outbreak of the First World War.

He was captain in the 68th Battery, Royal Field Artillery, and on his return from the war became owner of the Star Laundry in Vancouver.

He was married in 1934. He is survived by his wife, Dorothy; one son, Peter of New Westminster; one daughter, Mrs. Irvyn Ross (Joan) of Duncan, a granddaughter and one sister of Cleve Hill, England.

HELPFUL PLANT
Mr. Hastings brought his family to Duncan in 1944 and was employed as accountant at the Cowichan Creamery and the Vancouver Island Poultry Co-op, where he took great interest in helping to get the plant designed and in operation.

He started his own accounting business in 1947 which he ran until the time of his death. Arrangements for a memorial service are being made by the family.

Union Meeting
DUNCAN — The next general meeting of Local 190, I.W.A., will be held at union headquarters on Brice Road here, March 21.

ALBERNI — Somass Branch, Royal Canadian Legion, honored its two senior members at a birthday party.

Rev. Glen Stevenson, padre of the branch and also of the North Island zone, is 94, and Fred Rasmussen is 83 this month.

Port Alberni Building High
PORT ALBERNI — A permit for a $750,000 project at the Alberni pulp and paper division of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. has brought building figures well over the level of last year at this time.

Total for the month was $838,335. In the first two months of 1964, the total was $937,795 compared with $138,700 in January and February of 1963.

More Briefs Urged For Commission
PORT ALBERNI — "It's time more people were heard on this important matter," Mayor Les Hamner said as he urged local organizations to get briefs in for consideration by the royal commission on gasoline prices.

He said he had noticed that local prices had gone up a cent or two after dropping at the time the commission was sitting in Nanaimo. The city's brief was presented and gas prices at some stations in the Alberni Valley dropped on the same day.

"Now the commission is sitting again and I am hoping that interested groups in this district will delay no longer in presenting briefs," he said.

Island Man Tells Probe:
Keep Gas Prices Free

Dutch-born John Boersen, an Imperial Oil service station dealer at Port Alberni, yesterday told the royal commission on gasoline price structure: "I came here from Europe. I came here because it's a free country and not as nationalized. Now Canada wants to go back to the system they have in Europe."

He was answering questions put to him in cross-examination by Cyril Shefford, MLA for Onimaca, who asked if Mr. Boersen thought the government should set the price of gasoline or did he prefer the companies to set the price.

FREE ENTERPRISE
"I'm in favor of free enterprise," Mr. Boersen said, "not government interference. Companies set the prices of other products I buy—there's much more freedom."

Mr. Boersen told commissioner Judge C. W. Morrow it was common knowledge in Port Alberni some dealers gave "under-the-counter discounts" on gas sales.

"I must say, however, that I have no definite evidence of this. It is just hearsay," he said. "I believe it is done to select customers, though."

Mr. Boersen said the "under-the-counter discount" was operated in such a way that two or three cents a gallon discount was given in a 10-gallon order.

"I don't think it is given to the individual motorist, though," he said.

PERSONAL QUESTION
Mr. Shefford then asked Mr. Boersen why he had travelled some 250 miles to speak at the commission.

"That's a very personal question and I don't think I have to answer that," said Mr. Boersen.

Again under cross-examination by Mr. Shefford, Mr. Boersen said when Woodward's offered a low-rate non-brand gas, he lowered his price of gas to below Woodward's prices.

COULDN'T SURVIVE
"I charged 39.9 cents a gallon," he said. "But I did it for two days only. I couldn't carry on like that—and survive. Most certainly not."

Duncan to Help Delegates

DUNCAN — City council Monday night decided to grant free parking to delegates attending the annual convention of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, March 23 and 24, hosted by the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber.

This year's library contribution from the city toward the grand total of the Vancouver Island Regional Library, amounting to $226,000, will be $7,352.

A total of 11,013 books were circulated here during February this year, about the same in Nanaimo, according to Ald. B. W. W. Cocks.

Council ponders the possibility of expanding activities of the city planners from the downtown section to the entire city, but first costs will be determined.

A request along this line came from the Duncan Advisory Planning Commission.

Meanwhile the city decided to pay for the creation of a "green belt" with trees and benches at the old post office which now houses the National Employment Service and Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Financial assistance for and membership in the newly formed society, Cowichan Forest Museum, is being asked of the city and a decision is expected to be made following a committee meeting.

Council was told a down payment had been made on land at Somers Lake, and $28,000 must be raised by Sept. 1.

The land will be used for the re-location of a valuable historical logging equipment collection owned by Gerald Wellburn of Deerholme, including a mile-long narrow-gauge railway track.

Some time ago Mr. Wellburn agreed his collection should stay in the Cowichan Valley where it will be beneficial to several communities.

Ald. Hamish Mutter commented: "It would be a tremendous asset to the district, resembling a small Disneyland."

The city's contribution towards social welfare during February amounted to $3,071, and building permits issued in the same period represented a value of $50,500.

Three more tag days, to be held this year, were approved by the council. They are: Royal Order of the Royal Purple, May 9; Duncan Kiwanis Club, June 6; and Third Duncan Cubs and Scouts' Apple Day, Oct. 3.

Alberni Wants Cage Playoffs

ALBERNI (Special)—Alberni, to make up its mind, is going to bid to hold the Canadian senior "A" men's championships. Basketball Association struggles A group to study the matter

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Within the next few weeks Andrew McGregor hopes to open up his new nine-hole course at the south end of Prospect Lake. With a par-33 course boasting three unusual par-three holes and at least a couple of long, testing, par fours, Andy has hewn an exciting little course out of forest and scrub.

Once the level of Prospect Lake falls a little to clear flooding on two low lying fairways, the new course will be about ready for play. The greens seeded a year ago are coming into shape and within a few weeks should be in good putting condition.

McGregor's course is full of interesting and unusual features. At almost all of the par four holes the drive must be placed accurately in order to give an open shot to the green. Most of these have a backdrop of forest land or water and are tightly guarded on the approach by an avenue of trees.

When Andrew took me round the course on Sunday, the eighth hole—about 410 yards—was still flooded in front of the green owing to the high level of the lake, but it is perhaps the star turn of the circuit.

The tee is elevated about 50 feet above green level. On the right to catch a long drive is a forested bank, and on the left the waters of Prospect Lake. The drive must be placed to give a shot to the green which may entail a faded wood or long iron. Andy also has a back tee here which would increase the terror of this hole.

One par three hole is blind, but is such a little scenic gem of 160 yards that it would be a sin to change it. Another is about 80 yards to an elevated postage stamp green that will call for extreme accuracy.

One of the par four holes has an old barn as a hazard confronting the drive that is sliced or faded.

A carpenter by trade, Andrew has practically built this golf course himself and in his spare time. He has a couple of local teen-agers helping him Saturdays on maintenance work. The big earth moving jobs, of course, were let out on contract.

Andrew and his wife Dorothy, whose home is just behind the ninth green, have a lovely view of Prospect Lake as does the whole course. They aim to make their little course, with a modern little clubhouse—built by Andy, of course—a haven for those golfers who look for peace and not too much crowding.

The course is easily spotted from the north end of Prospect Lake, and may be approached either from West Saanich Road or Burnside Road.

Victoria Golf Club's plan to have English pro Alexander M. Robertson as its successor to Laurie Carroll fell apart last week when Robertson cabled the club that for domestic reasons he had been forced to decline the offer which he had previously accepted.

The club is now attempting to make an arrangement with another professional, also from the Manchester, England area.

Another series of four lessons for junior golfers will be held under sponsorship of the Victoria District Golf Committee, with the various club pros as teachers.

All interested juniors who are members of BCGA clubs in the Victoria district should register immediately at their home club. Fee is $1 and closing date is March 18.

Inter-club junior matches are also planned, along with another Victoria-Vancouver series. Funds for these activities are provided by the B.C. Golf Association.

ENTRIES are now being taken for the Vancouver Island match play open, which starts March 29 at Royal Colwood, and with the field limited to 160 there is every indication there will have to be a handicap cutoff, so great is the interest. . . . Ben MacLeod and Laurie Carroll of Victoria Golf Club retained the city open buttons Sunday by beating the Uplands pair of Gord Fallow and Frank Scroggie on the Victoria course. . . . Mike Morgan and Clarence Mitchell of Gorge Vale beat challenging clubmates Ray Spence and Jack Brown for the senior buttons. Next challengers are Larry McCooey and Roy Johnston of Colwood. . . . final monthly medal of the season will be played Sunday at Colwood with 51 entrants. MacLeod leads after two rounds with 130, followed by Norm Baden (143) and Carroll (144). . . . Bob Moss, 73-7—66, won the spring meeting handicap award at Uplands Sunday, followed by Bill Merlak, 75-8—67 and L. Greenwood, 80-12—68. Moss also had low gross, but the prize went to John Macfield (75) after a tie. . . . best ball of 67 gave Gordon Jones and George Murphy the Clark Trophy match Sunday at Gorge Vale with a net 62. Jones had the best round of the day, a 71 and he and Murphy also had the low gross best ball score, but the prize went to Bill Wakeham and Al McLeod, 69, by reversion.

Sound of Champions Smacks of Success

By JIM TAYLOR

To people who know badminton, the difference between club class and world class can often be measured in sound. At Victoria Racquets Club yesterday, you could hear the sound of champions.

The Japanese Thomas Cup team was holding its first workout in preparation for their zone final against the United States Friday and Saturday on these same courts. And when you watched, you knew you were seeing some of the best.

SHARP CRACK

There is a sound that tells you, a sharp, explosive crack that comes only when a bird is well and truly hit. Club players can strive for years and never get it, but when the Japanese players swung yesterday it was heard again and again—a sound like the snap of a wet towel on bare flesh.

Erlend Kops, probably the best of them all here in his two appearances, had it. It is the mark of the badminton elite, and it was even more impressive yesterday because the Japanese team is so youthful.

OLDEST AT 30

Playing coach Yoshiro Sato is the oldest at 30. Eiichi Nagai is 26, Yoshiro Komiya and Eiichi Sakai 24, Takeshi Miyana, 23, and Yoshinori Itagaki a mere 22.

But last weekend in Vancouver they met the best-conditioned, best-prepared Thomas Cup team Canada has offered in years, and slaughtered it.

"They beat us worst at what we considered the place that would win for us," said local official Bob Macmurchie. "They took us apart in the doubles. I don't know how they would be ranked internationally against the United States, but anyone who saw them play Canada would have to rank them favorites."

TIME OUT

Midway in the workout there was time out to talk to the press. The Japanese team can read English and understand it, and are making phenomenal progress in speaking it, but for the moment the questions and answers were relayed from manager Shochi Kawabata by Kelly Kurita of the Japanese Consulate in Vancouver.

No, the Japanese weren't particularly surprised at the ease (8-1) by which they demolished the Canadian team. This was not bragging, merely the honest answer to a question.

EVEN CHANCE

Yes, they figured they had a 50-50 chance against the U.S. team, although none of their players had ever played any number of the American entry. Their feeling was that since American scores against Canadians are much the same as the Japanese posted in Vancouver, the two zone finalists must be evenly matched.

Japan's national badminton association was formed in 1948 and now has 10,000 registered members in addition to the thousands who play casually.

NO CLUBS

There are no clubs as we know them here, only groups of people, usually employees of some industrial firm, who get together, form a group, then find some place to play. In the main, matches are played in school gymnasiums.

Despite their win in Vancouver, Kawabata said his team had some difficulty adjusting to different equipment, particularly a different type of shuttlecock which doesn't travel so far as the ones used by the Japanese. No, he could not say who on his team would play in what order. Draw will be made to night, and since the American team arrives today there is no time giving them any extra time to plan.

Credentialed? Komiya, the top Japanese singles player (beaten by Wayne Macdonnell for Canada's only victory) last weekend, was quarter-finalist in the all-England tournament and semi-finalist in the U.S. Open last year.

Miyana was all-Japan singles champ in 1962. Nagai, playing captain, was an Asian Games team member in 1958 and 1962, and all the others have similarly impressive backgrounds. And to top it off, the Japanese recently beat Indo-nesia's current world champions in the Asian Games.

Most of all, they have youth, and that could be the big factor in the five singles and four doubles matches this weekend. The Japanese team has an average age of just under 25, and the U.S. team averages 32.5 years.

U.S. SQUAD

Playing for the U.S. will be: JIM POOLE, 32, top-ranked in U.S. singles and first left-hander ever to win that title. Beat world champion Finn Kobbera in 1958.

JOE ALSTON, 38, and WYNN ROGERS, 41, current U.S. doubles champions, a title they have held since 1951.

DON PAUP, 24, and MANUEL ARMENDARIZ, 30, second ranked in U.S. doubles. First Thomas Cup appearance for Paup, fourth for Armendariz.

MIKE HARTGROVE, 30, fifth ranked in U.S. singles, member of last two Thomas Cup teams.

Winner of this zone final goes on to Japan, where the winners of all zones play off for the right to challenge world champion Indonesia. Despite the language barrier, you got the feeling yesterday the Japanese plan to go home to that one as players, not spectators.

Late Rallies Win Contests Esquimalt Series All Even

Esquimalt and District Amateur Hockey League's two best-of-three semi-finals were forced to the full three games at the Sports Centre last night as Army and Esquimalt Pontiacs won on the strength of third-period rallies.

Army, trailing 3-0 after two periods, scored the game's last six goals for a 6-3 victory over University of Victoria Vikings. Pontiacs, the league champions, scored the last four goals in a 6-4 win over Navy.

Both series will wind up Friday, with winners advancing to a best-of-five final.

Vikings, in one of their better efforts, appeared to have their semi-final well in hand after a first-period goal by Glen Vickers and two in the second by Glyn Harper and Jerry Cocheti. But everything came unglued in the third.

Rod Lafonde, George Eade and Les Desjardins scored in the first eight minutes to tie it up. Eade got the winner at 9:30, and Stu Kubb and Dave Stones added the others.

Second game provided 1,500 fans with more of a battle. Score was tied, 1-1, at the end of the first period. Navy made it 3-2 after two and scored in the first minute of the third period.

GOT MOVING

Then Pontiacs, led by Joe Iannarelli, finally got moving. Iannarelli scored at four minutes, made the play for a goal by John Makowski at 7:15 to tie it up, and scored the winner from Makowski at 13:40. Keith Lawrence got the last goal at 18:40.

Bob Fowler and Doug Couch did the rest of Esquimalt's scoring. Ron Cook scored twice and Ken Maxwell and Dave Cardinal once for Navy.

Thanks from B.C. For Dagg Quartet

British Columbia is to give official recognition to Lyall Dagg, Leo Hebert, Fred Britton and Barry Naimark for their victory in the Canadian men's curling championship in Charlottetown last week.

Lawrie Wallace, deputy provincial secretary, said last night that Premier W. A. C. Bennett would make a presentation to the Vancouver Curling Club rink this afternoon "on behalf of the citizens of British Columbia."

The presentation, at a time yet to be decided, will probably be made in Premier Bennett's office.

More Tests for Clay

Liston's Bursitis No Fight Factor

DETROIT (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston has been suffering from a mild case of bursitis for nearly two years but this was not the reason he lost to Cassius Clay, his physician disclosed Monday night.

Dr. Robert C. Bennett of Detroit, physician for the Michigan Boxing Commission, said he treated Liston several times prior to his loss to Clay in Miami two weeks ago.

Bennett said Liston's bursitis, in both arms and shoulders, "wasn't anything too big.

In my opinion, but he did complain about it."

He added he did not believe the bursitis had any connection with the arm injury which prevented Liston, a 5-1 favorite, from answering the bell in the seventh round and gave challenger Clay the title on a technical knockout.

"I think Liston's problem in the fight was that he swung and missed, severely stretching or rupturing his arm four or five inches below the shoulder. In our post-fight examination we could see the swelling and blood."

The pain was so severe, Bennett said, that Liston couldn't get his coat on "and his arm was so swollen we had to make him a sling."

Meanwhile the Army has ordered a re-examination of Clay's draft acceptability.

The Army said results of a pre-induction examination taken by Clay at Coral Gables, Fla., in January were "inconclusive."

Clay was said to have flunked the mental test.

Pairs Champs Join Ice Show

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Germany's world champion pair figure skaters, Marika Kilius and Hans Juergen Baunier, are turning professional.

Attorney Hugo Eckert said Tuesday the two would sign their first contract with a Vienna troupe for one year starting next September.

Curling Roundup

Another Title to B.C.

REGINA (CP)—Ed Gee of Chilliwack, B.C., won the Canadian policemen's curling championship Tuesday.

Gee, making his fifth appearance in the championship, scored three on the 10th end to topple favored Wally Strauss of Yorkton, Sask., RCMP 5-4 in the final.

Gee, who curled behind third Bill Gilchrist, second Ken Watson and lead Lorne Weme, joined Lyall Dagg of Vancouver and Ina Hansen of Kimberley as Canadian champions from British Columbia.

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario remained undefeated Tuesday night at the end of the second draw of the Royal Canadian Legion national curling final.

Alberta defeated Nova Scotia 11-4, Ontario swamped Quebec 14-6, Manitoba edged New Brunswick 8-7, Prince Edward Island won, 10-4, and British Columbia took a 9-7 decision over Newfoundland in the second draw.

Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan won opening games in the third round-robin competition.

TORONTO (CP)—Seven rinks from across Canada will vie for the Canadian farmers' curling championship here this week.

It will be the windup of competitions, both local and regional, in which more than 6,000 rinks tried for a berth in the national finals.

Magistrate Referees Shouting Match

Doctor, Lawyer Have At It

Magistrate William Ostler had to referee a brief shouting match between Victoria lawyer Robert Price and Dr. E. L. McNiven at an impaired driving trial in city court yesterday.

The altercation started when Mr. Price, defence counsel for Michael A. Rees, 636 Monterey, questioned Dr. McNiven's ability to estimate the alcohol content of Rees' blood on the basis of physical observations.

Rees was charged after striking the rear of a car stopped for a stop sign at Richmond and Lansdowne at 2:10 p.m. Feb. 15.

He told police he had drunk a pint of straight rum at a wedding reception between 10 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.

Dr. McNiven was called in to administer a sobriety test. He asked Rees if he was ill and Rees said: "I've got TB. Do you know what that is? That's a tavern belly," he said, patting his stomach.

He gave his address as

"Behind the tweed curtain, Oak Bay."

"You are able to determine the quantity of alcohol in a person's blood stream without a chemical test?" asked Mr. Price, after Dr. McNiven had estimated Rees' blood-alcohol content at .16 per cent.

"Yes, I've done it hundreds of times," said Dr. McNiven. He said he had often had his estimates corroborated by a breathalyzer test.

He added he might be out slightly either way, but not enough to make any difference.

"Or you could be out by .32," said Mr. Price.

"Don't talk rubbish," snapped back the doctor.

Mr. Price then asked if Rees' face had been flushed the night of the accident.

"Yes," said Dr. McNiven.

"Is it flushed now?"

"I can't tell without touching it," said Dr. McNiven.

Rees has a ruddy complexion.

"If his face was flushed then it is flushed now," said Mr. Price.

"Not necessarily. Don't be stupid," answered the doctor.

Magistrate Ostler then warned the two against shouting at one another.

"It is most undignified for professional men like you to be shouting at each other in a court."

Both men apologized.

Rees was found guilty, was fined $300, and had his licence suspended.

Port Alberni Mayor

Tourist Future Terrific

PORT ALBERNI—Mayor Les Hammer affirmed his faith in the Alberni Valley's tourist potential in a statement made at council meeting Monday night.

He said he wished to dissociate himself from a remark attributed to Ald. Bob Dalton, who was acting mayor at a meeting of the Twin Cities councils with the airport committee. Ald. Dalton had indicated that he regarded tourism as of little importance in this district.

"There's a wonderful potential here," Mayor Hammer declared. "With the road to the West Coast and, we hope, a highway to Comox Valley in the near future, we'll be the hub of tourist business on Vancouver Island."

He commended an idea brought forward by Alan MacLean, director of Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau, for inauguration of religious services in Cathedral Grove. The mayor suggested that an Easter sunrise service would be appropriate.

Pollution Discussed

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Representatives of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell Rivers Ltd., city councils of Alberni and Port Alberni and pollution experts held a closed meeting Monday on how to cut down air and water pollution here.

Licence Revoked

Salesmen Take Off Without Refund

PORT ALBERNI—Three watch salesmen apparently left town Monday night without waiting for a refund on a peddler's licence revoked by council.

Frige Weiss, who was fined $20 last week for operating without a licence then later bought one, contended that if council took the licence away the $30 fee should be refunded.

REVOKE FEE

Council voted unanimously to revoke the fee and to refund the money only if the city solicitor said it had to be turned back to the buyer. Weiss, told that he would find out in the morning if he would receive a refund, announced that he and his companions were leaving for Vancouver immediately.

As spokesman for the trio who were selling watches on the streets over the past week or two, Weiss declared that it was the first time he had had a licence revoked.

"I've had thousands," he said. Ald. Howard McLean, who opposed a refund if the council was not literally obligated to make it, said it was obvious what the peddlers wanted.

"They operate without a licence as long as they can, then demand their money back if the licence is cancelled," he said. "That way it costs them nothing to operate."

Two jewelers with permanent businesses in the city attended council meeting to protest the scope given to peddlers under the city's bylaws. Ray Tyler said that if the peddlers are asked to post no bond that nine times out of ten quality of the goods is inferior, and the peddlers have left town before the public realizes that the goods have been misrepresented.

Mayor Les Hammer said he felt the three men in question had made nuisances of themselves by stopping people on the street to sell their wares.

Weiss declared that he and his "friends" had been selling watches for $15 of the same quality as those sold for $100 or $150 by the established jewelers. "They're just jealous," he said.

NANAIMO—The Kinsmen swimming pool in Bowen Park may not open on schedule this year if a filtration system cannot be installed.

Harry Wipper, civic properties and recreation manager, told members of the recreation commission the proposed wading pool cannot operate without a filtration system and the way the swimming pool is constructed the system must operate in both pools.

He said some money had been set aside in the recreation budget to look after a portion of this equipment but the rest is to be provided by the Kinsmen.

To date the Kinsmen have collected $4,000 in a week-long fund drive but they need $6,000 more to cover the cost of construction of the pool and the filtration system.

Museum Or Pool?

DUNCAN—Duncan Rotarians are faced with two recommendations by their directors but one or the other will have to be approved by the membership.

The first calls for a $3,000 contribution towards the newly formed Cowichan Forest Museum for re-establishment of Gerald Wellbarn's logging collection to the shore of Somers Lake.

The second is in favor of spending the money on a $100,000 community swimming pool to which the Rotarians some time ago pledged the initial $25,000, if the two municipalities here would share the balance.

The Rotarians decided to wait for the joint parks and recreation meeting between Duncan and North Cowichan at which time it is hoped the two municipalities will make public whether or not they want to support the swimming pool scheme.

The Rotarians advised both councils by letter a suitable site for the pool has been found nearby the Kinsmen wading pool here.

Alumni to Meet

Victoria branch of the University of Toronto alumni association will hold its annual meeting in the Art Gallery of Victoria at 8 p.m. Friday March 20.

Mystery Siren Wails

Oak Bay residents developed a slight twitch and started phoning the police station when a mysterious siren started booming out around 7 p.m. last night.

The weird sound which lasted about 20 minutes or more was never traced to its source.

SEVERAL SECTIONS

Phone calls came in from several sections of the district complaining of the din and making it difficult to pinpoint.

The first call came in from a residence on Middowne followed by several more calls from homes that were some distance away from the first complainant.

POLICE CHECK

Police checked intersections along Cadboro Bay Road at Middowne, Thompson and Lansdowne but were unable to locate the source of the din.

At least one of the residents hearing the noise thought it might be a car horn that stuck, others were convinced it was a siren—but we may never know.

Alberni Indian Centre

Place of Guidance, Aid

PORT ALBERNI—"A friendship centre is a half-way house for the Indian between life on the reserve and life in the urban community," Mayor Les Hammer said in an outline of his proposal for a centre in this city.

He recommended that an organization be set up to handle the details of establishing the centre, and solicited support of all interested groups and individuals.

Mayor Hammer told of an "ideal building" almost identical to the one used for the Vancouver centre which is well situated and immediately available for rent. Action cannot be delayed too long, he said.

After reviewing the situation of Indians on isolated reserves, the mayor said:

"The inheritors of the old Indian system, being less qualified than most white men, must face in turn—inadequate financial resources and may, as a result, drift into areas where they are likely to get into trouble. A common lack is the feeling of identity with a group, and this cannot be attained in a beer parlor, in Oakalla or on skid-row."

"The need is for social acceptance, yet the Indian is not aware of the existence and resources of agencies."

"There must be a better way to introduce young boys and girls and struggling families from the reserves into urban life."

As a half-way house, the centre is a place where the Indian comes for guidance and help in adjusting to the new, strange environment of the city, where he seeks encouragement and moral support from his own people and understanding non-Indians, the mayor said.

Nanaimo Assizes

Post Office Burglar Hears Fate Thursday

NANAIMO—Paul Benjamin West will be sentenced Thursday on a charge of breaking and entering the Alert Bay post office following conviction by a jury in assize court Tuesday.

Cpl. George Saundry, an RCMP fingerprint expert, testified that a print taken from West in the RCMP detachment headquarters in Alert Bay matched a fingerprint found on a piece of glass broken out of the door used to gain entry to the building.

William Verchere, defence counsel called to the case at noon Monday, argued that all evidence presented by the Crown was circumstantial. Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton had allowed Mr. Verchere Monday afternoon to prepare his case before reconvening court.

Today Robert Leon Renton Dunbar, Victoria, will defend himself on four charges of breaking and entering and theft, one charge of arson, and two charges of possession of stolen goods, all alleged to have occurred during the summer of 1963.

The charges involve thefts from a concession stand at Thetis Lake, theft and arson in a gas shed at Obble Hill, theft from the Goldstream Inn, thefts from Stenmark's Jewellers at Duncan, and theft of tools from a garage near Harris Creek.

Festival Takes Two-Day Rest

NANAIMO—The Upper Vancouver Island Music Festival is taking a two-day rest to prepare for dancing competitions slated to begin Thursday morning.

An honors performance Saturday evening will give the winners a chance to perform before the public.

St. John Meeting

St. John Ambulance Retired Members' Group will meet at the Victoria branch St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora at 2 p.m. today.

James Bay

Would You Like To Take Walk?

The high-rise apartment isn't a thing of beauty to every eye and a group of Victoria citizens, interested in community planning, has organized a walk through James Bay for Saturday to point out that there are some very pleasant streets with old buildings in that area.

The walk is sponsored by the Capital Region branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada and it will be

CIVIC LEADERS

Civil leaders from the Lower Island have been invited to take the walk, which is open to the public. Walkers will travel in groups of ten, each with a professional planner as guide and to point out features of the area.

Premier Bennett, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, Victoria's MLAs, and chairman of the Capital Improvement District Commission J. Everett Brown have been invited to the luncheon.

TWO, THREE MILES

The walk starts at 9:30 from the Beacon Hill Park lot and will cover two or three miles ending in time for lunch at the Tally-Ho Travelodge at 12:30 p.m. and the talks which start at 2 p.m.

Luncheon tickets, at $1.50 each, are available from the Tally-Ho dining room; Ker & Stephenson Ltd., Broughton; Harbour Machine Shop, Erie; G. Barr, 395-2850 (evenings); F. Crocher, 383-0854 (evenings); Mrs. F. Monckton, 385-4257, and Mrs. B. Packford, 382-0786.

Worker Injured By Tree

A man working in the woods near Cowichan Copper mine campsite was seriously injured when struck by a falling tree yesterday.

Oto Marentes of Duncan, a mine employee, was working on a steep river bank within 300 feet of the main camp when the tree toppled.

His rescuers had to carry him up the steep embankment to level ground at the site before he could be lifted into the Sooke volunteer fire department ambulance.

He was in serious condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night. The accident occurred shortly after noon.

Police Action Asked

Drivers Blast Cars So Does Homeowner

PORT ALBERNI—A homeowner near the Civic Arena would like to see police take action against drivers who operate vehicles with straight pipes and Hollywood mufflers, gun their motors and take off at any hour of the day or night.

Arnie Backmeier suggested at council meeting that the anti-noise bylaw be enforced to curb the activities of the drivers. He expressed satisfaction that police had ticketed a number of motorists who had parked in the strip marking the intersection of Dunbar and Ninth Avenue in front of the arena.

Two men who had been among those ticketed protested on the grounds that the practice had been condoned during recent bonfires. They contended that tickets should not have been issued without warning to all those involved.

City Cypriot Saddened

By KEN JOHNSON

Last night a sad-eyed, grey-haired man sat quietly at his home at 681 Burnside East—but his heart was thousands of miles away on the trouble-torn island of Cyprus.

He was 82-year-old Stanley Morise. For many years Mr. Morise has been well known in Victoria as a tailor. But in actual fact, the quiet-spoken man was born a Greek-Cypriot.

"I worried because I have many relatives in Cyprus," Mr. Morise said. "But what has disturbed me most over the past few weeks have been the newspaper reports I have read."

"Every report I have read about Cyprus in Canadian and American newspapers has given only one side of the story—the Turkish side," said Mr. Morise. There was no bitterness in his voice as he spoke.

"I would like to clear up some of the misleading things which have been said. Before all this trouble Turks and Greeks lived happily side by side. There was no friction between them."

"But over the past few years, trouble-making Turks known as bashibozuks, or hoodlums, have gone to Cyprus from the mainland and have begun causing unrest. Their willingness to cause trouble has been taken advantage of by political leaders—and fighting has begun."

"What do people expect the Greeks to do? Sit back and let themselves be massacred?"

"And you know, when newspapers show these photographs of murdered Turkish children, you cannot be sure they are Turkish. There is hardly any difference between the appearance of a Turk and a Greek Cypriot."

"I am getting old and I'm about to retire soon. Maybe I'll go to Cyprus to see my relatives next summer when I do retire. The last time I heard from them, they said they were all right. But it is not much comfort when each day we hear new reports of violence."

"But I'd just like people here to know that the Greeks and Turks on the island are not really against each other. It is these outsiders who cause the trouble."

"Some of my best friends here in Victoria are Turks. It is very sad." Tears came to Mr. Morise's eyes as he talked. "Forgive me for being so moved," he said.

New Hampshire Reaches 10,000 Miles for Favorite

Write-Ins Write Off Rocky, Barry

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Absentee Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge blanketed three major contenders with a flood of write-in votes to win a stunning upset victory Tuesday night in New Hampshire's Republican presidential primary.

Lodge, 61, the Johnson administration's ambassador, 10,000 miles away in South Vietnam, rolled up about 32 per cent of the votes and seemed likely to gather under the tent of his unannounced candidacy the state's 14 convention nominating votes.

Senator Barry Goldwater

Rep. Ariz.) and New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, who campaigned intensively in the state for weeks, battled it out for second place, with Goldwater holding the advantage. Their names were on the ballot.

In fourth place was Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 Republican presidential nominee, who, like

Lodge, was the beneficiary of a write-in campaign.

In the Democratic primary, President Johnson got a substantial write-in count, topping that of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy for president and vice-president.

In Washington the Democratic national chairman, John

M. Bailey, said the Kennedy vote reflected "the great esteem which the Democrats of New Hampshire would hold for him and held for his martyred brother."

The Republican tally from 207 of 302 precincts: Lodge 19,994; Goldwater 14,614; Rockefeller 12,180; Nixon 10,694.

Lodge supporters led in all 14 contests for delegate posts.

Rockefeller, calling Lodge a New England favorite son, challenged the ambassador to return to join in active pursuit of the nomination. He said that statutes governing the state department would require Lodge

Lodge Ponders

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Tuesday he will "very carefully consider" his endorsement by the voters.

George Cabot Lodge said he received the statement from the ambassador in a telephone call to Saigon. The son said he told his father before the election that the public opinion polls "look pretty good."

Three-River Policy Next Year?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The B.C. government's vast two-river power policy could become a three-river policy next year with the addition of the Fraser to the Peace and Columbia.

Shouting Match

Banking Bill Passes

B.C.'s revolutionary banking bill sparked its third legislative shouting match yesterday as Liberals lost a last-ditch stand to block it.

Chief antagonists again were Premier Bennett and Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane.

FINAL READING

The bill, which enables the government to become a partner in the proposed Bank of British Columbia, got third and final reading. It needs only the formality of being signed by the lieutenant-governor before it becomes law.

Mr. Macfarlane spearheaded Liberal opposition to the bill yesterday when he accused the premier of deliberately withholding names of prospective bank directors and the amount the bank's authorized capitalization.

PHONY REPLIES

He said that when he asked questions of the premier he just got "phony answers."

The legislature was being asked to sign a blank cheque on the provincial treasury, he charged.

"This is a dark day in the legislative history of B.C.," he said.

Premier Bennett lashed back. "This is a dark day for the Liberal Party of B.C.," he shouted.

AGAINST B.C.

"You are against B.C. You are for the eastern interests," he continued angrily.

He said that during the "financial crisis" controversy of two years ago Mr. Macfarlane had done "unfathomable harm to the people of this province."

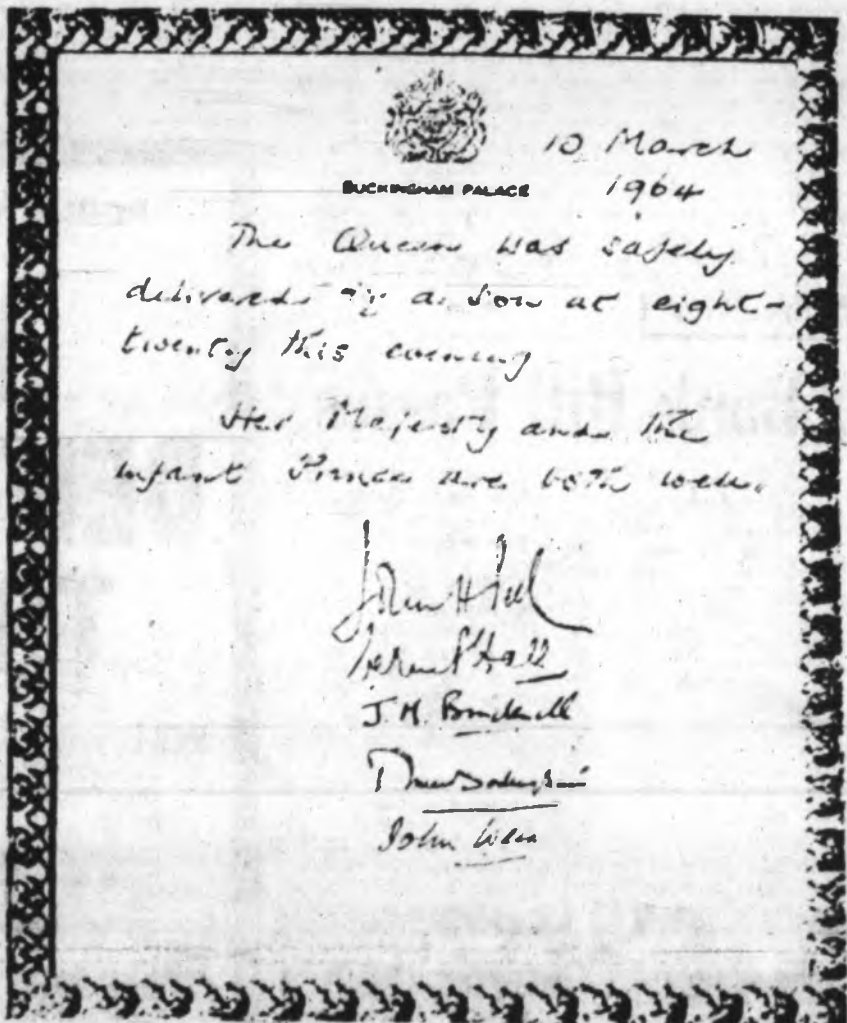

"You are an enemy of the people of this province," he cried.

Strike-Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The shipyard strike will delay the inauguration of the Comox-Powell River ferry run beyond this year's tourist season, Highway Minister Gagliardi said Tuesday.

The government awarded a $494,177 contract to Victoria Machinery Depot in December for the 25-car 230-passenger ferry for the run. It was to be ready this summer.

Royal birth announcement, signed by physicians

B.C. Celebrates Sunday

Next Sunday has been proclaimed as a "day of rejoicing and a day of prayer to almighty God" in B.C. in recognition of the birth Tuesday of a third son to the Queen and Prince Philip. (See story on Page 3.)

The proclamation was issued by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black on behalf of Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

The provincial legislature passed a resolution asking the lieutenant-governor to forward to the royal couple the members' "great joy at the birth of your son."

The resolution was moved by Premier Bennett and seconded for the Opposition by Arthur Turner (NDP—Vancouver East).

'All Canadians Rejoice'

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier Tuesday sent the following telegram to the Queen:

"With my humble duty I wish to express to Your Majesty on behalf of your Canadian people our great joy at the birth of a son. With Your Majesty and His Royal Highness we give thanks to God for this precious gift and pray that He may grant the little prince a long and happy life."

Prime Minister Pearson sent the following message:

"All Canadians will rejoice at the glad news of the birth of a son. May I on behalf of the government extend to Her Majesty and Prince Philip loyal and hearty congratulations and all good wishes."

Plea for Retarded

Tisdalle Stills Legislature

A man who often empties the B.C. Legislature last night held it spellbound.

Sanich Sacred MLA John Tisdalle took just six minutes to ram through the salary vote which Health Minister Martin has sought since last Thursday.

He talked of Woodlands School for retarded children as if he were a parent of one of its patients—which he is.

Mr. Tisdalle is the father of an 18-year-old boy in Woodlands.

In the midst of the most raucous debate since the 1964 legislature session started Jan. 23, he brought total silence to the floor of the House.

If the chaotic debate on mental health which had raged for two hours was an example of how to get proper facilities then "God save me from it," said the Sanich MLA.

In Woodlands, he went on,

Tisdalle

'Don't Take Them Away'

When a choleric Health Minister Martin tried to interrupt, Mr. Tisdalle talked him down.

"This is my own opinion," he said. "Nobody is going to shut me up."

The Sanich MLA asked the house to disregard his personal implication with Woodlands.

"I feel incensed," he said.

"I know tonight I can go to parents and find they are suffering because they cannot get accommodation for their children."

"All we need to do is vote the supply and get on with the job."

Mr. Martin left the house at one point during Mr. Tisdalle's speech.

When he returned he sat with head bowed.

Victoria University's Lam-downe facilities were being put on the auction block to the highest bidder when they were urgently needed as a local facility for the retarded. Mr. Tisdalle said.

Retarded children shouldn't be taken away from their own communities.

"Bring them back into the community where the people know them and there is human kindness," he pleaded.

There had been too many emotional words on the subject of care for the retarded and not enough action, he told the hushed legislature.

Mr. Tisdalle was surrounded by a government clique which earlier had been pounding gleefully on desks as Mr. Martin uttered shouted rebuttals to opposition attacks.

When he was finished a half-dozen government members pounded their approval.

The role of government critics is a strange one for the Sanich member. Usually he is one of its most ardent admirers.

Floods Spread Death

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States Red Cross rushed disaster workers to Cincinnati and Louisville Tuesday night as floods, torrential rains, snow and destructive winds wrought havoc in the eastern half of the U.S.

The swirling floodwaters and vicious March elements left a trail of at least 16 dead in the Midwest and east and drove thousands from their homes. Damage was in the millions.

SPILLED BANKS

Rivers and streams fed by the drenching rainfall spilled over their banks in western Pennsylvania and created widespread flooding.

An Ohio River flood, threatening to become the fourth worst in the valley's history, forced the evacuation of thousands from their homes in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

Robert C. Edson, national director of disaster services for the Red Cross, said a survey showed 23 counties in Kentucky, 16 in Ohio, 15 in Pennsylvania and six in Indiana were affected by the floods. At least four persons died in the floodwaters.

U.S. Go Home Shout Cambodians

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Rioting Cambodians sacked the U.S. Embassy in this capital of Cambodia today, tore down the U.S. flag and burned it and ran up the Cambodian flag instead.

The sacking followed a demonstration by several thousand Cambodians in front of the U.S. and British embassies. They shouted "U.S. go home," "Down with imperialists and the free world," and "Perfidious Albion (England)."

No damage to the British Embassy was reported.

There was no immediate word whether any Americans were injured in the riot. Several demonstrators were hurt by shattered glass as the mob stoned windows.

The crowd broke through police barriers and sacked the U.S. Embassy and the United States Information Service offices for two hours. Several embassy cars were turned over.

Rioters put a ladder against an embassy wall and climbed up to bring down the flag. Embassy papers were scattered through the streets.

East Germany

Unarmed U.S. Plane Downed by Reds

WIESBADEN (AP) — A U.S. reconnaissance bomber disappeared Tuesday and the United States accused the Russians of shooting down the RB-66B over Communist East Germany.

A U.S. defence department spokesman said the plane was unarmed and that its three crew members parachuted after the shooting, which apparently occurred near one of the Berlin air corridors. Their fate was not known here.

ATTACK DIVE

A civilian pilot said he saw what looked like an attack dive by a Soviet-made MIG-17. He said he saw a flash as if the jet had fired rockets but was not able to see the target.

In Washington, the state department protested to the Soviet Union over the "precipitous action by the Soviet military forces in shooting down" the plane, but expressed regrets that the plane had "inadvertently" strayed into Communist East Germany.

CREW, WRECKAGE

The department asked the Russians to co-operate in returning the crew members and the wreckage of the plane.

The air force said the plane was last spotted near the central Berlin air corridor, one of the lanes reserved for allied planes flying over Communist territory between Berlin and West Germany.

Gloucester Eyes Candidate

GLoucester, England (UPI) — Hypnotist Henry Blythe said Tuesday he plans to win a seat on the Gloucester city council by hypnotizing the voters.

Bank Break-In Nets $78,000

JONQUIERE, Que. (CP) — An estimated $78,000 was reported stolen Tuesday night in a break-in at a bank in this Lake St. John lumbering community.

No one saw the thieves. Jonquiere is 115 miles north of Quebec City.
